

MEXICO TO FILM EXECUTION

EMERSON 3C TAX TAKES EFFECT AUG. 1

House Passes Bill; Goes to Governor.

Only 3.5% of Illinois money is spent in the Chicago area.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Springfield, Ill., March 20.—(Special.)—The Emerson 3 cent gas tax passed the house today by a vote of 10 to 5 and the usual motions to reconsider and table were defeated. The measure now goes to the governor for his signature. It becomes operative Aug. 1.

Twelve Cook county representatives, all Republicans, voted for the bill. The negative vote was made up of four Cook county Republicans and eight members from downstate. The downstate members were from districts in which the measure is of importance.

House Special Tax to 3%.
The measure, which it is estimated will increase the average special tax on automobiles owned by Cook county to 3% a year, goes to Gov. Emerson in the same form it came to the house from the senate, where it was passed a fortnight ago. In the upper chamber four minor administrative amendments were incorporated, but otherwise the bill went through the house just as the governor and Sen. T. S. Hanna, chief highway engineer, had suggested.

The downstate members who joined them were: Sen. East St. Louis; Burns, Sen. Clark, Decatur; Crowley,
Sen. C. D. Evans, Freeport; Green,
Sen. Kane, Bloomington; Lewis,
Sen. McHugh, and McClurg, Peoria.

The political affiliations of the Cook county members who voted with the majority are as follows:
THOMPSON—Blackwell, Duro,
Sen. Galvin, E. A. W. Johnson,
Sen. King, E. W. Turner,
Sen. THOMPSON—Mariner,
Sen. THOMPSON—Wardell,
Sen. THOMPSON—Mancini.

Sen. HARRIS.
Analysis of the affiliations of this group makes it appear that Mayor Cermak still struggles against opposition and has hopes that support of the administration measure may result in his political credit. This group is given little credence by anyone, however, who insist that Gov.
Emerson has made it clear that he regards no claim in return for support of the gas tax and that he makes no promises, express or implied, in connection with the subject.

Gov. Admits Defeat.
The fate of the opposition was sealed when the house was adjourned today. When the bill was passed by a special order of business, Governor Emerson, in a minority speech, admitted defeat and declared himself as follows:
"I hold Mr. Homer Rice, speaker of this assembly, in a great deal of admiration. I am watching a mouse. I will not admit, Mr. Rice, that you have been misled away and about all that is left to do is to talk about it and then the votes; Cook county uses the mouse."

Sen. County is not opposed to the passage of the uncompleted portion of the bond issue and is on the whole, in favor of it. Even though the country is treated unfairly in the distribution of the money, we are still for the measure. They all should be satisfied.

PUBLIC TO SEE AGUIRRE BEFORE FIRING SQUAD

Vera Cruz Leader Is Taken in Battle.

AGUA PRIETA, Sonora, Mex., March 21.—(AP)—American and Mexican officers at the border here announced this morning that rebellious Yaqui Indians under the command of Gen. Ramon Yucupicio, had moved from the garrison here towards Naco, Sonora, where an attack on the federals was believed imminent. The troops left in motor cars and were fully equipped. Families are fleeing across the border into Arizona.

JIMENEZ, Mexico, March 20.—
(AP)—The capture of Guadalajara and Puebla, near Mexico City, and the start of a movement of rebel forces in the states of Nayarit, Guanajuato, Michoacan, Zacatecas, and Jalisco toward Mexico City was reported at rebel headquarters here tonight.

It was revealed that the rebels had planned to cut the Calles federal army completely off from its source of supplies by these movements.

MEXICO CITY, March 20.—Opening of the battle for Mazatlan, Mexico's chief seaport on the Pacific, and capture of Gen. Jesus M. Aguirre, who started the present revolution in the state of Vera Cruz, 17 days ago, were announced by President Portes Gil tonight.

Gen. Aguirre was captured at Agua Caliente, in the state of Vera Cruz, by the forces of Gen. L. Hernandez this afternoon, following a battle in which numerous men were killed on both sides; among them Gen. Manuel Alfaro.

Those ousted are Max F. Meyer, professor of experimental psychology;
Harmon O. De Graft, assistant professor of sociology, and O. H. Mower, student assistant in psychology.

Although Mower was ordered suspended as an instructor, he was not ordered suspended as a student.

The executive board's action was announced in a prepared statement given out at the executive offices this morning after the curators, in session with Dr. Sutton D. Brooks, president, and Leslie Cowan, secretary, had investigated the circulation of the questionnaire.

Effective on Saturday.

The suspensions take effect next Saturday. Final action will be taken in Kansas City April 6, when the full board will formally decide whether the suspensions are to be made permanent.

North Todd Gentry, former attorney general and former member of the Missouri Supreme court, presented a petition to the board signed by 300 Columbia citizens asking that faculty members responsible for the questionnaire be discharged.

Upholding the faculty members was a petition signed by 1,200 members of the student body.

Approximately 3,000 students unanimously adopted a resolution at a mass meeting here tonight, appealing for reinstatement of the two ousted professors.

The board in its statement asserted the questionnaire should not have been circulated, because "by its very nature it tends to create a condition which it is alleged to correct." The board also said it could find "no justification for an inquiry that from its very nature could not produce any scientifically valid conclusions," and that "while recognizing the instructional abilities of the individuals involved, we feel the circumstances that have arisen have so seriously impaired their usefulness that their further services are not desirable."

Howell Williams, a student assistant instructor in sociology, resigned this morning following the dismissal of the three faculty members. Williams explained his resignation was "a personal matter."

Rebels Ship Out Gold.
A telegram received at the office of the presidency at Chapultepec castle this morning said the rebel governor of Chihuahua, Juan Caraveo, yesterday shipped into the United States seven trucksloads of gold and silver coin, part of the loot gathered in the banking institutions and commercial houses of Chihuahua and other towns in the state of Chihuahua.

Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar is credited with the capture of the gold.

Columbia, Mo., March 20.—(Special.)
—The executive board of curators of the University of Missouri today ordered the suspension of three faculty members whom the board held responsible for the recent circulation of a questionnaire among students asking intimate questions as to sex and marriage.

BACHELOR SLAYS LOVE RIVAL WHO WON; KILLS SELF

For more than a year, Mrs. Daisy Macha, 29 year old widow, had been wooed by two bachelors, Frank Kabella, 35 years old, carpenter of Stic-keny, and Frank Kroupa, 37 year old shoemaker of Lyons.

Mrs. Macha preferred the carpenter, so last Saturday morning she became Mrs. Frank Kabella. The rejected shoemaker witnessed the ceremony, uninvited, and went home to his bac-elor quarters in a rage.

Last evening the shoemaker sought out his successful rival and found him nailing a roof on a garage in the rear of the cottage he had completed for his bride at 434 and Harlem avenues, Stickeny. The former widow was inside preparing supper.

The shoemaker spoke no word, but drew a pistol and fired one shot which pierced the carpenter's head. As Kabella fell dead at the shoemaker's feet, he turned the gun on himself and dropped dead on his victim's body with a bullet in his brain.

Mrs. Kabella, again a widow, found them thus and lapsed into hysteria.

Wealthy Real Estate Dealer Admits Killing

John McKenzie, 45 years old, wealthy real estate dealer of 113
South California avenue, was arrested last night in connection with the slaying last Oct. 24 of Artur A. Glanke, secretary of the Arrow Conductor company, 1556 West Adams street.

McKenzie was seized in the Del-Roy hotel, 3154 North Racine avenue, where he was registered as John Smith.

McKenzie had been missing since the shooting of Glanke. In his room at the hotel, Sgt. William Barron and Thomas McLaren of Desplaines street police found a matchbox containing $500.00 worth of bonds and mortgages which McKenzie admitted he had withdrawn from his safety deposit box yesterday.

Preparing to Flee City.
According to the policeman, Mc-Kenzie admitted slaying Glanke in a quarrel and said he was preparing to flee from Chicago forever.

Glanke was shot on the night of Oct.
24 in front of the Y. W. C. A. building at Ashland avenue and Monroe street.
There were no witnesses to the quarrel, but at the Presbyterian hospital the wounded man told the police that McKenzie had shot him. He died two days later. A coroner's jury investigating the death called on the police to arrest McKenzie and hold him on a charge of murder.

Lays It to "Spit Wall."
After his arrest last night, Mc-Kenzie told Sgt. Barron that he and Glanke had been enemies for several years as a result of a "spit wall" which separated property owned by the real estate man from Glanke's home at the Adams street address.

McKenzie had waged a long court fight to have the wall removed, he said, but on the day of the shooting the court had decided against him.

According to his story, he sought out Glanke that night and they quarreled. McKenzie told the police that Glanke had a pistol and that he fired in self defense. Sgt. Barron said, however, that no gun was found in possession of Glanke after the shooting, or in the vicinity.

McKenzie said that after the shooting he fled from Chicago and went to Blue Island. After a few days there he moved on to Aurora and then thence went to Milwaukee.

He returned to Chicago for the first time last Saturday, he said, to make preparations for a permanent flight.

Early this morning he was locked up at the Des Plaines street station after the police had taken down his statement.

300 Miners Entombed by an Explosion

Parnassus, Pa., March 21.—(AP)— Three hundred men were entombed by an explosion at the Valley Camp Coal company mine today. The explosion occurred shortly after the day shift had entered the mine.

Flames shot out of the mine and clouds of smoke shrouded the adjacent countryside after the explosion.

Details of the blast were lacking. A terrific explosion was heard at 7:45 o'clock. The new Kensington fire department rushed to the mine and ambulances were summoned from nearby towns.

Girl Is Slain, Escort Shot
by Ex-Suitor

Miss Margaret Weismantel, 22 years old, of Naperville, was ambushed and shot to death in front of her home early this morning by Ted Freeman, a rejected suitor, who also wounded her escort, Dean Perry, 24 years old, also of Naperville. Freeman lay in wait for the couple and shot them when they drove up in an automobile with
Mr. and Mrs. Theron Horbelt.

The four had been attending a dance.
As they drove up Freeman sprang from the bushes and approached the car, from which Mrs. Horbelt had already alighted. He heard Miss Weismantel for having turned her affections to another, then drew a gun and fired directly at the young woman. Several bullets struck her in the region of the heart. Then, turning the gun on Perry, he fired twice at him, two bullets taking effect in his body.

Horbelt rushed the wounded girl and Perry to St. Charles hospital in Aurora, where Miss Weismantel died a few minutes after her arrival. Perry's wounds were said not to be serious.

According to the Naperville police,
Miss Weismantel had been engaged to Freeman for some time, but recently broke the engagement and had been going about with young Perry.

Miss Weismantel and Perry, according to statements made in Naperville, are members of old families of that town. Freeman was said to have come there from the south four years ago. He was arrested and taken to the Naperville jail.

LINDY, ANNE WILL MARRY IN JUNE,
MEXICO REPORTS

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, March 20.
—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his fiancée, Miss Anne Morrow, expect to be married some time in the month of June, it was stated upon the highest authority here today. The place of the ceremony has not yet been decided.

Miss Morrow's trousseau is now being prepared, though it is not yet completed. The couple will decide nothing further before Lindbergh's return to Mexico City, which is expected to be within a few weeks.

the nurse again suggested that the emaciated marshal be lifted back to his bed.

"Alone y' get's go," said the marshal, placing his hands on the arms of his chair to brace himself while being lifted.

Then, without another word, the veteran soldier's head fell back to the chair and rolled on to one shoulder. It was the end.

Nurse Falsie summoned Dr. D. Vanhook, who injected an intravenous saline solution of strychnine, but this time the worn out heart refused to respond.

Mme. Foch Prostrated.
Mme. Foch was not present when her illustrious husband passed away. She has been almost prostrated with grief and worry over his illness for several weeks.

The news of the marshal's death spread like wildfire throughout the city and within a quarter of an hour automobiles bearing the notables of the government, the army, the navy, the diplomatic set, and prominent visitors of all nationalities began driving up the Rue de Grenelle.

The crowd went inside to the downstairs hall and signed the book as a last homage to the generalissimo.

In front of the seventeenth century mansion in which Marshal Foch lived, huge crowds gathered. They drew back respectfully when the notables passed through, and some wept a little when Mme. Weygand, wife of Marshal Foch's great lieutenant and technical adviser, arrived with two nuns, who will pray tonight at the bedside of the dead soldier.

Foch's Jesuit Brother Arrives.
Many wept, too, when Father Foch, the marshal's Jesuit brother, arrived almost in a state of collapse. He had arrived from his post in the front only this morning but had been advised not to attempt to see his brother today. He saw in the newspapers what had happened.

Father Lhonde, the marshal's confessor, for he was a devout Catholic, came forth utterly broken. He told how he and Marshal Foch had talked this morning, mostly of the war, and how when a passing breeze fluttered the flags above his head the marshal raised his hand and pointed to one that fluttered most.

"I love that country. They are a great and generous people. Without them—"

It was the Stars and Stripes. Sacraments administered to the marshal two weeks ago were renewed shortly before midnight tonight by Abbe De L'Isle, curate of the little Sainte Clothilde church, just around the corner from the marshal's home.

Washington Pays Tribute.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., March 20.—Warm tribute to the military genius and fine human qualities of Marshal Foch was paid today by President Herbert Hoover and the highest officials of the American government.

The death of the marshal was followed a once by the dispatch of messages to the French government expressing the sorrow of the American people for the loss of a national hero. Scores of messages of condolence, many from American generals and other Washingtonians closely associated with the French leader during the days of his greatest military power, were received this afternoon and evening at the French embassy in the national capital.

"I have learned with sincere regret of the death of Marshal Foch," President Hoover said in a public statement issued after he had directed Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg to cable the sympathy of this nation and government to Mme. Foch.

"I share the respect and admiration in which he is universally held, but beyond this it was my privilege to be closely associated with him in various activities after the war was over."

"I realize how keenly he will be felt by the French people. In this loss they have the full sympathy of our people."

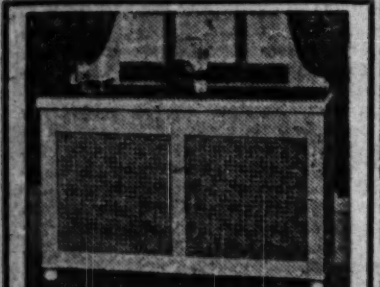

Germans Withhold Comment.
BERLIN, March 20.—(P)—Marshal Foch's death finds the German popular mentality still too much imbued with the spirit of resentment over what is regarded as the humiliating manner with which the German armistice commission, headed by the late Matthias Erzberger, was treated at Compiègne to make it seem advisable for men in public office to comment on the distinguished Frenchman's career, though nobody questions his military genius.

President von Hindenburg declined a statement on his famous adversary, not because he is not the highest regard for his opponent's ability but because he is no longer merely a field marshal, but is also the head of the nation.

FOCH'S LIFE STORY

When Marshal Ferdinand Foch, with sure grasp, remarkable strategy, and rare power of co-ordination, was directing the allied effort which finally broke the German hosts, he was in command of more men than any one had led in the history of the world.

Outwardly, in those days of anxiety and even of apprehension, Foch did not suggest the super-soldier, but

Just 11 Years Ago Foch Took Supreme Command of Allies

Washington, March 20.—(P)—Eleven years ago tonight German troops were moving up in dense masses to strike their most terrific blow of the war just at dawn of March 21 on a fifty mile front against British troops. The roar of preparatory bombardment rattled doors and windows in Dover, far across on the east coast of England.

The final struggle for mastery was at hand; the hour for the coming of the greatest soldier of the war, Ferdinand Foch, marshal of France, had struck.

Nine days later Foch was generalissimo of all the allied and American forces on the western front. First word of this final act to weld into a single force the armies battling back the German onrush came in a cryptic message of congratulation to Foch, sent by the late President Woodrow Wilson on March 29, 1918.

Wilson's Premature Message.
"May not convey to you my sincere congratulations on your new authority?" the American war president wrote. "Such unity of command is the most hopeful augury of ultimate success. We are following with profound interest the bold and brilliant action of your forces."

Not until the next day, March 30, did David Lloyd George in London announce this fateful decision.

On March 29, too, came Gen. John J. Pershing's terse message announcing that he had thrown all the American forces in France into the scales. "Have made all our resources available and our divisions will be used as needed," the American commander cabled after his conference with Foch.

"French are in fine spirit and both armies seem confident."

So it comes that almost on the eleventh anniversary of the greatest moment of his career, when to him passed command of a military machine more vast than any the world had ever dreamed of, the French marshal, hero of the first Marne, has breathed his last.

He was never to forget the part America played in demanding unified rather a mild, rather benevolent person, with a likable twinkle in his gray eyes. Beneath, however, and controlling the man in all his acts was a tremendous power of will which drove him on and on until he had attained his objectives.

"Victory equals will," he once said. "Victory goes always to those who deserve it by the greater force of will. A battle won is a battle in which one will not acknowledge one's self beaten."

He carried this philosophy into a capable success in the world of war. In 1914 the French were retreating in good order from Belgium and the Ardennes and Joffre gave to Foch the task of forming a new army to operate between the retreating Fourth and Fifth armies. Foch's new corps was simple and strong when, in September, the order came to stop the invaders at the Marne at any cost.

"Will to Win" Succeeds.

As the thrust of the Germans developed, the full force struck at Foch, something that the strategists of the French had not counted upon. The right wing of Foch's army crumpled. The left wing was badly shattered. The center threatened to break. If over a commander had been defeated Foch had been.

But the "will to win" exerted itself. Suddenly Foch swung the 42d division, a tried and trusted unit, from his left to his center, and ordered an attack. Opposing were the famed Prussian guard divisions, bordered by sturdy, hard fighting Saxons. Foch saw a weak spot between the Prussians and the Saxons and he struck there. His adversaries yielded and then fell back. Foch followed them into Chateau-sur-Marne, halting only when his men were too tired to go farther.

It was this success, with its first manifestations of his bulldog determination to win even in defeat, that lifted Foch out of the rank of comparative obscurity.

In April, 1918, when the Germans set in motion their great offensive, Foch was appointed to command the armies of all the allies. From that point Foch went stubbornly on to the ultimate victory.

Born in French Pyrenees.
Ferdinand Foch was born at Tarbes, in the French Pyrenees, on Oct. 2, 1851. His father was a lawyer but command and in urging his selection of the task. Little of this had cropped to the surface of the news before President Wilson's cabinet deliberations were made public in Washington. Even in this country the lid of voluntary press censorship was tightly clamped. In fact, it was not until April 18 that the former message of American ratification of Foch's selection was made public by Gen. Bliss, American representative on the supreme war council headed by Foch, and who transmitted it to the French government.

Secretary of War Newton B. Baker had been in Europe some time when the German drive was launched in March. He was quick to approve Gen. Pershing's prompt tender of all American forces to Foch.

Sweeps Back German Tide.
For it was by the employment of American troops Gen. Pershing's crusaders that Foch achieved the organization of that "army of maneuver" which later swept back the German tide and wrung victory from defeat by Nov. 11.

The news that the expeditionary force was to participate was met with cheers and shouts of delight from one end of the American zone to the other, even at the front," said a dispatch from the American headquarters on March 30, telling of Secretary Baker's statement.

On Nov. 12, the day after the victory had stilled the war tumult at last, Pershing planned on the breast of Foch at Senlis, France, the American Division of Service Medal awarded him by President Wilson.

"I will never forget the tragic day last March when Gen. Pershing put at my disposal, without restriction, all the resources of the American army," Foch at that time said in expressing his pride in the decoration.

"The success won in the hard fighting by the army is the consequence of excellent conception, command, and organization, and the irreducible will to win of the American troops. The name Meuse may be inscribed proudly on the American flag."

and retire in order to better positions at Couronne de Nancy. Briefly refreshing his men, he attacked the regiment before him, and by victory at the "gap of Charnes" was credited with preparing the way for the victory in Lorraine.

It was immediately after this that Foch led the 42d division in between the Prussians and the Saxons. Then, as the race to the sea to checkmate the German threat for the channel developed, it became necessary that a leader of great authority and military tact be dispatched to coordinate the resistance of the allies.

Pershing Urges Foch.
Gen. John J. Pershing, commanding the A. E. F., early inclined to Foch as generalissimo. Filling all their heads into a mighty offensive, which opened the spring campaign of 1918, the Germans had the allied lines shaking under the attack. At points, where the onslaught was especially heavy, it seemed the lines must break.

The supreme command to Foch was extended at Doullens, twenty miles north of Amiens, on March 29. Formally taking over complete command, Foch issued energetic orders and the allied lines stiffened. Foch and his men definitely stopped their foes. It was the last failure of many attempts to smash through the French-British line and get over to the channel.

Foch took the offensive and in May went into the battle of Alsace with American divisions engaged. From then until July, Foch laid his plans, permitting the foe to infiltrate into "pockets" in the allied lines, which he planned to close upon them.

In July, however, the Germans came to life strongly, with an attack along the front from the Alsace to the Marne. The foe drove ahead fast for a time, but Foch gradually stopped them and in the end he struck at the flanks of his adversaries. This forced a German retreat and was the touch-off for a grand allied offensive.

Tells of Final Offensive.

The Germans were tiring, their morale was at ebb and the leaders of the allies, in agreement with Foch, felt the hour had hand for a forward movement that was not to halt until the Rhine had been reached. The allied troops, too, were weary and worn, but the Americans were pouring into France and every hour the allied outlook brightened.

Through September and October, with Petain, Haig and Pershing working smoothly with Foch, the attack went on and on. Nov. 3 the general retreat of the Germans began. Foch was after them at once and began opening the third and final phase of his attack. Just as he began this development the armistice was sought.

AMERICAN LEGION TOOK Foch ON TOUR AROUND U. S. IN 1921

Indianapolis, Ind., March 20.—(P)—Marshal Ferdinand Foch, who died in Paris today, was one of two honorary national commanders of the American Legion. The other is Gen. John J. Pershing. Both were voted the title by the National Legion convention held in Philadelphia in 1924.

In 1921 Marshal Foch came to this country as a guest of the Legion. He covered 20,000 miles and his journey led him through the eastern states, the wheat fields of the middle west, the vast plains of Texas, and the plantations in the south. His trip was climaxed in the national convention of the Legion at Kansas City.

Hundreds of thousands of Legionnaires and citizens turned out in all principal cities to see and hear Marshal Foch. His personal aide was Francis Drake, an officer of the A. E. F. and a Legionnaire. A flotilla of destroyers met the French liner Paris, and as she steamed in the Narrows on Oct. 28 the marshal was greeted by a 19 gun salute. New York gave him one of its typically famous receptions.

FOCH WAS HARD WHEN GERMANS CAME FOR TERMS

PARIS, March 20.—(P)—Marshal Ferdinand Foch's connection with the great war will be perpetuated only slightly more through his military achievements than by the historical scene in the clearing of the Compiègne forest where he awaited the German plenipotentiaries in order to communicate terms to them.

The marshal was short and succinct with the German envoys—so much so, in fact, that they complained afterward that he had humiliated them. When the Germans entered the marshal's car they were ushered to one side of a table. Opposite them Foch stood with the other allied plenipotentiaries. The first words formed this question from the marshal:

"Who are these gentlemen, and what do they want?"

Erzberger, leader of the Germans, was taken aback, but he quietly announced his mission.

FLAMES DESTROY ABANDONED MALT COMPANY PLANT

The third fire to attack the abandoned plant of the Acme Malt company within a year destroyed the six story brick structure at Kilbourn avenue and Bloomingdale road last evening and provided a spectacle for thousands of workers who hurried on their way home to watch a dozen engine companies in action.

Firemen were compelled to run hose lines several blocks to reach water hydrants. A 4-11 alarm was turned in, bringing sufficient apparatus to prevent the blaze from spreading to an adjacent grain elevator, also out of use, and to the plant of the Heco envelope company, half a block from the blaze.

CAPONE, AS U. S. WITNESS, SHUNS HIS OLD HAUNTS

Crowd Jams Streets to See Gang Chief.

Alphonse Capone held the attention of Chicago for a few hours yesterday, but as daylight and twilight faded he became an outcast. Last night he was in hiding, said to be unwelcome in his own home town of Cicero which was waiting for his latest saloon trial to be forgotten.

Capone arrived amid the tumult of Chicago, but he came only because the United States government had recently commanded his presence here. He had been before the federal grand jury held at least fifty persons waiting in a stuffy corridor for more than an hour while he was in the jury room, and caused policemen to be stationed as guards and traffic managers around the Federal building all day. Then the gang chief left the department to join those of his bodyguard who were in Chicago. Observers said he was an addled man, apparently ill, and with his reception.

Avails His Usual Haunts.

Under other circumstances he would have been in his usual haunts last night. But he wasn't. His friends and associates in his intricate business couldn't locate him. Chicago police who in bygone days he had treated as friends didn't care for his presence last night. Not that his presence was feared, but his presence was regarded as publicity of the wrong kind.

No, he's the last person we'd want to see tonight," the Cicero believers said. "There's too much heat in the town now because of the killing Tuesday night in Madison's place. He must have gone far out of town. He's stopping somewhere in some hotel suite where no one would expect to find him. He'll keep under cover till he has to show again at the federal building."

Capone is the man gangsters speak of as king, child citizens refer to him as Scarface. But United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson yesterday called him an ordinary hoodlum. Police and prohibition agents regard Capone as a boss bootlegger. In Miami, Fla., he is known as Al Brown, gentleman of leisure and money, lately inclined toward privateering in the land of his winter estate.

A Lawyer on Either Side.

Actually Capone was a mere government witness yesterday, but he was flanked by two lawyers who had no intention of saying they were getting paid for money for waiting in the hall while Capone was answering questions.

Capone's return to Chicago from New York had assumed greater importance since the day of the killing of two members of the gang headed by Capone. So yesterday, when he was taken to answer a federal subpoena, interested persons had many questions to ask.

He Waits, but Is Not Called.

All morning he sat in the ante-room of the grand jury chamber and was not called inside. Noon adjournment came, and then Capone's reputation was apparent. Lieut. John McCormack and Serg. Bernard McCormack of the detective bureau, with six of their squad members, acted as his escort to the office of William F. Waugh, one of Capone's lawyers.

Fully 1,500 persons had waited for a glimpse of the gang leader in the morning. Thousands were around the building at noon, eager for a peek at

MOTHER WILL TAKE HER REUNITED FAMILY HOME; HAS OVER $500

With more than $500 contributed by those who had read of her distress, Mrs. Ethel Hoffman, 19 year old mother who abandoned her baby last Saturday when she was no longer able to support the child, is expected to leave today for El Reno, Okla., where she will be welcomed by her mother. Mail continued yesterday to pour into St. Vincent's orphanage, 721 North La Salle street, where the mother and child were reunited when her story became known. The one day's contributions totaled over $200, in individual gifts from $25 to 25 cents. In addition, Mrs. Hoffman has received her railroad ticket to Oklahoma and clothes for herself, the baby, Jesse, 2 weeks old, and his brother Bobby, 14 months old. Meanwhile, 150 children under 12 years old at the orphanage are hoping that Chicago will remember them, too. The Crib society hopes to raise $10,000 for the orphanage on Sunday afternoon, April 21, when John McCormack will give a benefit concert.

The man whose reputation as a gangster increased tenfold after the Valentine day massacre of the Moran gangsters.

The outsiders weren't interested in what Capone was going to say to the federal jurors. Just a few lawyers, a few policemen, and perhaps a few others were interested, it being a foreign conclusion among gangsters that Capone would never "squawk."

Orders Secrecy in Testimony.

District Attorney Johnson gave warning in the morning. For Capone or his lawyers to divulge his testimony to outsiders would be contempt of court, the prosecutor ruled. For any one else to repeat it or publish it would be contempt of court. The evidence, if any, must be secret.

Because Capone had been subpoenaed at the instance of Assistant District Attorney Daniel Anderson, who for months investigated the alcohol ring of Chicago Heights, it was assumed that Capone would be questioned mainly about his knowledge of that matter. And when Attorney Joseph Lustfield, representing the Chicago Heights defendants, waited in the hall all afternoon it was assumed that the first assumption was correct.

"What have you advised Capone to do?" Attorney Waugh and Benjamin Epstein were asked. "We have told him of his rights—that he may refuse to answer any question if he feels the answer might incriminate him," they stated. "Will he sign an immunity waiver?"

"Our advice would be for him not to waive any immunity to which he is entitled," they declared and Mr. Waugh explained further:

"We want the protection of the court for Capone if he is to testify and we expect he will refuse to answer certain questions and then will be taken before Judge James H. Wilkerson. If given immunity by the court he will then answer the questions."

But that occasion did not arise. From outside observations, for Capone was not taken before Judge Wilkerson.

"If he is taken before the court will he then tell what he knows about other bootleggers?" Waugh was asked. "He'll have to," Capone's legal adviser replied.

Questioned by Grand Jury.

Something not anticipated by Messrs. Waugh and Epstein happened in the grand jury room. It was inferred, for Capone was closeted with the jurors and Prosecutor Anderson for an hour and twenty minutes—long enough for him to have given the history of his rise from a humble assistant of John Torrio when Torrio was but an assistant of Jim Colosimo to the top of his chosen business.

It was learned the jury ordered Capone to return next Tuesday and Waugh and Epstein wanted the date advanced so that he could finish all his testimony without a delay. They said nothing about Capone's fear of being killed or about his danger, it was said later, but their request was not granted. Capone was told that if he reported every day he would get $5 a day in addition to mileage from and to Miami, but that if he didn't report until Tuesday he would be paid only the $5 for the days he was "working for the government."

His departure was attended by the same protection that accompanied his arrival. Deputy United States marshals escorted him to the street. Lieut. McCormack and the other policemen took him as far as Waugh's office, where their responsibility terminated. Capone was left alone for the night.

No effort was made by the police or representatives of the state's attorney to serve him with a state summons, arrest him, or even question him regarding the Moran gang massacre.

Reichel testified that Frances answered: "Yes. I'll never feel safe until the man who wrote those letters is dead." The girl denied this, asserting she had used the phrase "until the man is put away," meaning put in jail.

One night, Reichel took Frances to a store, pointed in through the window at a man seated therein, and said: "There's the sender of the letters. I've tracked him down."

The girl was asked yesterday to view the body of Rybicki. She said it was not the same man who had been pointed out to her by Reichel.

Gets Another Letter.

Reichel's story of how the killing occurred was told to police after he had led them to the body in the garage. But the police were investigating the theory that Rybicki may have been lured to the garage to be slain, although some thought the deceased man may have been a partner of Reichel in the extortion plot.

A fourth letter, demanding money, was received by Maslanka yesterday morning. It had been posted hours after Rybicki was dead.

CHARGE 'SLEUTH' WITH MURDER IN BLACKMAIL PLOT

Slew to Appear as Hero to Girl, Police Say.

Stanley Reichel, 26 years old, was in jail last night charged with murder following his confession that he had killed an acquaintance whom he accused of being a blackmailer. A coroner's jury investigating the killing yesterday brought in this murder finding on the theory that Reichel had committed the killing in an effort to make himself a hero in the eyes of his sweetheart by pretending to protect her from blackmail.

Police said the keen faced, good looking youth was as strange a criminal as any they had ever encountered. They refused to believe the story he told, but were loath to decide that Reichel had planned a series of blackmail notes and then deliberately murdered Michael Rybicki, 1610 Centennial place, merely in order to prove his ability and courage as an amateur detective.

Claims Self-Defense.

Reichel repeated indignantly his tale of the slaying of Rybicki in a garage in the rear of Reichel's home at 2455 Girard street. As he talked to the coroner's jury he kept a brooding gaze fixed upon the face of Frances Maslanka, 2415 North Springfield avenue, the girl for whose sake, he said, he killed Rybicki.

"I killed him to protect her," he said. "Rybicki was the man who sent blackmail notes to Frances' father, threatening to kill her if payments were not made. I tracked him down. Tuesday night he came to my garage, apparently for me. He hit me from behind. I struck him with an iron bar, and he fell down."

There was a bruise on his cheek, caused, he said, by Rybicki's blow. But police said Rybicki had been struck over the head many times, and not with an iron bar but with a monkey wrench which was found.

At times Reichel, who was employed as a street car motorman, spoke perfect English; then he relapsed into faulty grammar. He used phrases obviously borrowed from the fiction of criminology.

Poses as Detective.

The story placed together from the testimony of witnesses at the inquest runs as follows:

Reichel met Frances last September when she was employed by a piano company and he was introduced to her by a friend. She didn't know that he was married. He told her that his street car motorman's uniform was a disguise. He was in reality a secret service man, he said.

The girl said yesterday she guessed she had come to love Reichel with his big stories of becoming a physician in six months and his tales of big earnings as a detective. She introduced him to her father, John Maslanka, well to do contractor. There was talk about marriage between Stanley and Frances.

On Feb. 4, Maslanka received a dramatic letter signed "The Bel" which threatened Frances' life unless $500 were put in a packet and tossed out of a Grand avenue car at Narragansett avenue. Maslanka told the police and tossed a dummy package while detectives watched. No one appeared for the packet.

"Why bother with the police?" Reichel was quoted as saying after a second and third letter had been received. "I'll clean this up. Do you want this man killed?"

Reichel testified that Frances an-

SERGEANT BARRY IS RECOMMENDED AS 'BRAVEST COP'

Sergt. Andrew Barry, detective bureau squad leader, who has won The Tribune's hero award on three occasions, yesterday was recommended by the civil service commission to receive the Lambert Tree medal as the "bravest policeman of 1935." He was one of the examples of his police work which the commission considered. He again distinguished himself in January of last year when two bandits who had planned to hold up a theater owner on the west side were slain by Barry and his squad.

Barry's participation in the capture of Charles "Limpy" Cleeaver and Joseph Farina, fugitives from the Wheaton county jail, after a spectacular gun battle near Melrose Park, was one of the examples of his police work which the commission considered. He again distinguished himself in January of last year when two bandits who had planned to hold up a theater owner on the west side were slain by Barry and his squad.

The others recommended for honorable mention are Lieut. John M. Kelly, Sergt. Patrick H. Brown, Francis J. Clarke, Joseph E. Starshak, and Walter G. Starns and Patrolmen Frank S. Ballou, Thomas E. Connolly, Thomas Curtis, George Donegan, John E. Gorman, David Griffin, Simon Kennedy, William E. McCullough, Patrick J. McDonald, Frank E. McNamara, John Murphy, and George Schaefer.

Wanted: 'Yes. I'll never feel safe until the man who wrote those letters is dead.'

The girl denied this, asserting she had used the phrase "until the man is put away," meaning put in jail.

One night, Reichel took Frances to a store, pointed in through the window at a man seated therein, and said: "There's the sender of the letters. I've tracked him down."

DIPLOMATS WILL 'CHAPERON' ALE TO WASHINGTON

U. S. Works Out Plan to Stop Seizures.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., March 20.—(Special.)—Diplomatic "chaperons" will accompany liquor shipments from the port of Baltimore to embassies and legations in Washington if plans now being formulated by administration and police officials work out satisfactorily.

Under the new system, as explained today, foreign officials enjoying diplomatic immunity from arrest will be permitted to transport liquor from Baltimore to Washington without disturbance from prohibition officers or the police if a duly accredited embassy or legation official rides the truck with the wet cargo.

Diplomats desiring to transport a consignment of wines and whiskies from Baltimore to Washington will be furnished credentials informing all who may inquire that the cargo is diplomatic liquor and, as such, enjoys immunity from seizure.

Americans May Drive Them.

According to officials who have studied the problem since the seizure of a truck load of Siamese liquor last Friday, trucks accompanied by a diplomat with proper credentials will not be disturbed even though American citizens may be driving them.

All diplomatic liquor will be routed through the port of Baltimore so that American officials may exercise close supervision over the shipments from the time they enter the jurisdiction of the United States until they are safely deposited in Washington cellars.

Protection for Diplomats.

Dry officials believe the new plans will result in better protection for the diplomats and the importation of a somewhat smaller amount of liquor into the United States.

The decision to work out regulations under which foreign officials may transport liquor without undue interference was made after officials from the department of justice, treasury department, state department, the district attorney's office, and the police department had mulled over the diplomatic liquor problem for several days.

The investigators found, it was learned today, that while it is illegal for diplomats to transport liquor, there is no way this practice can be stopped if the foreign official accompanies his liquor shipment. By knowingly interfering with diplomatic liquor shipments officials would be violating a statute carrying a three year prison sentence.

OUST GOVERNOR OF OKLAHOMA AS INCOMPETENT

State's Second to Get Ax in Six Years.

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 20.—(AP)—The second successive elected governor of Oklahoma was removed from office today by the state senate court of impeachment when that body found Henry S. Johnston guilty of a charge of general incompetency, preferred by the house of representatives. He was exonerated on nine other charges brought by the house. J. C. Walton, Johnston's predecessor, was removed in November, 1923.

W. J. Holloway, lieutenant governor, was sworn in as Johnston's successor by Chief Justice C. W. Mason of the State Supreme court immediately after the senate court had completed its vote on the impeachment charges. Holloway had been acting governor since Johnston was suspended from office two months ago.

Johnston, who at last night expressed confidence he would be restored to office, received the verdict impassively. Mrs. Johnston, who had been at his side almost constantly during the lengthy trial, made no demonstration.

The senate vote came as a dramatic climax to more than two years of political turbulence, which reached the impeachment pitch late in 1927. At that time, however, Johnston succeeded in dispersing hostile legislators by court action after they had sought to convene on their own call.

Much of the fire against the Johnston administration centered on Mrs. O. O. Hammond, whom he had established as his confidential secretary immediately after his inauguration in January, 1927. Declaring that the attack on Mrs. Hammond and his administration was inspired by "disappointed political opponents," Johnston steadfastly refused to dismiss her.

Accepts Women's Resignation. After he was suspended from office and shortly before his impeachment trial opened Johnston accepted Mrs. Hammond's resignation. On the witness stand he explained that he had declined previously to dispense with her services because rumors had been circulated by his political enemies that his personal relations with the woman secretary were improper.

This charge, made in a purported impeachment article voted by the attempted session in 1927, was not renewed by the present session, and for this reason, Johnston said, he felt justified in accepting Mrs. Hammond's resignation.

H. Tom Knight, implacable political enemy of Johnston, made the closing plea for the suspended governor's conviction today. "Knight was one of four legislative leaders, styling themselves the 'four horsemen,' who started the movement for the abrogation of 1927.

Gowns Ignite in Tableau and Five Women Die
HAVANA, March 20.—(AP)—Five young society women in the suburban town of Sagua La Grande have died from burns received while taking part in a tableau at a dancing club on Sunday night. There were seventeen girls, dressed in flimsy costumes, in the tableau. A small child carrying a lighted candle is reported to have brushed against one of them. One of the young women died within a short time and four others died last night. The remaining 12 are in a serious condition at the Sagua hospital.

ADmits ROBBERY TO FREE FRIEND NOW IN PRISON

Joseph Vyrer, 36 years old, 1145 West 18th street, walked into the courtroom of Judge Harry B. Miller yesterday, and announced that his conscience bothered him, and he wanted to right a wrong done to a friend.

He filed an affidavit to the effect that it was he and not John Fischer, 36 years old, who on Feb. 19 had robbed Thomas Newirth, 1541 West 18th street, of $25.

Fischer was convicted by a jury of the crime, and is now serving a term of from 1 year to life in the penitentiary. Vyrer said he is the man who should be jailed.

Newirth branded the story of Vyrer as untrue and an attempt to thwart justice. Vyrer was ordered locked up pending a complete investigation of the facts and a possible mental examination.

GROUP WORKING ON TRANSIT PLAN NEAR AGREEMENT

Iron Out Differences; See Settlement Soon.

The several groups of conferees on local transportation approached nearer to an agreement on enabling legislation yesterday than at any time since they started last December. It was reported that substantial progress was made and it was predicted that, if the same trend continues today, a favorable conclusion will be reached.

The chief point of difference yesterday, as at every meeting during the last week, relates to the home rule bill. As originally prepared, this bill would confer local control over transportation to a commission appointed by the mayor and confirmed by the city council.

Committee, Aldermen Confer.

The first open activity yesterday was a conference between the Citizens' committee appointed by Federal Judge Wilkerson to aid in a transit solution, and Aldermen O. F. Nelson (44th), Jacob Arvey (34th) and E. I. Frankhauser (19th) at the Union League club.

Ald. Joseph B. McDonough (18th), chairman of the local transportation committee, was too ill to attend. Undoubtedly, the citizens committee representatives—James Simpson and Col. A. A. Sprague—discussed the drafts of the bills with the aldermen.

With the aldermanic views in hand, Messrs. Simpson and Sprague next met with Judge Wilkerson and Walter L. Fisher, the attorney who prepared the 1907 surface lines franchise ordinance. It is said that Mr. Fisher raised a doubt on the constitutionality of the proposed home rule bill with the provisions attached. He had been engaged by Judge Wilkerson to pass upon the constitutionality and adequacy of the bill and gave his written opinion on the subject yesterday.

From the physical activity around the judge's chambers, where this meeting was held, it is apparent that Mr. Fisher made some changes in his opinion, which in turn clearly indicates that there must have been some modification of the home rule bill.

Issue No Statements.
Later Mr. Simpson and Col. Sprague conferred with their own lawyers, Sidney E. Gorham and Allan T. Gilbert, and still later all had a meeting with the attorneys for the Surface lines and the elevated roads. No statement was issued regarding the results of any of the conferences. A man at the meeting said that the only reason for the ban on talking was that every one thought that an agreement—or a decision that there would be a disagreement—could be more quickly gained thereby.

A lawyer at one of the conferences said that he is hopeful an acceptable agreement will be reached before the week ends, but he indicated that it would not be highly pleasing to certain transportation interests.

This statement is probably significant in view of the fact that the three aldermen who had previously conferred with Mr. Simpson and Col. Sprague, appeared to be in unusually good humor at the council finance committee meeting yesterday afternoon. It was apparent that they had modified the city's demands in any substantial way, and were satisfied with the situation.

Validity To Be Assured.
Other aldermen asserted vigorously that they are certain that no bill will be presented to the legislature about which there is any grave doubt regarding its constitutionality. They, therefore, reasoned that the home rule bill will be changed to make its validity unquestionable.

It was generally assumed in the city hall that the only hitch now in the negotiations concerns the changes which must be made. Two law offices, concerned in the transportation negotiations were working last night, presumably on the wording of amendments to the home rule bill. Every indication points to the probability that there is a near agreement on the amendment or amendments.

ARGUE OVER OLD RECORDS AT 31ST 'L' FARE HEARING

Case, Started 258 Days Ago, Rolls On.

Contentions as to whether the Chicago Rapid Transit company shall reveal its records as far back as the year 1908 in order to prove its right to collect a 10 cent fare occupied most of the attention of opposing counsel before Master in Chancery Roswell B. Mason yesterday at the first hearing on the injunction.

The hearings began eight months ago. The 33d will be held next Monday. Congressman Frank R. Reid, who represents the city, an intervening petitioner, insisted that Harry J. Dunbaugh, lawyer for the elevated lines, produced answers to twenty-three questions propounded by the congressman at the last session. Most of these questions involved records reaching back over a twenty year period.

Calls Questions Irrelevant.

And to most of the questions Mr. Dunbaugh answered. "We decline this information as being irrelevant." In answer to some of the questions, Mr. Dunbaugh contended that the information sought would be contained in valuation figures to be submitted at a later date and which, it is reported, may reveal more than $139,000,000 as the total estimated value of present assets of the elevated system.

Started 258 Days Ago.
The injunction suit was filed to restrain the Illinois commerce commission from interfering with the collection by the elevated company of a 10 cent straight fare. The hearings began 258 days ago and neither faction will venture a guess as to just how long they will continue. The public, meanwhile, is paying 10 cents instead of three fares for a quarter or $1.35 for weekly passes.

FOUND GUILTY OF EXTORTION IN USE OF OLD PICTURE
George Cameron, 31 years old, for whom Mrs. Edwina Karstena, 5831 Stony Island avenue, posed on a bathing beach eight years ago when she was unmarried, was found guilty of extortion by a jury in Racket court last night and fined $100 and costs by Judge Daniel P. Trade.

The woman's husband, Harry Karstena, testified that Cameron and his brother, Neil, demanded money of him under threat to have the photograph published. Mrs. Karstena testified that she posed for the pictures in the belief that Harry Cameron was an artist. Neil Cameron will be tried tomorrow.

WARD GROGAN, OLD TIME WARD LEADER, IS DEAD

Democratic Boss Stricken at Wisconsin Home.

Edward J. [Harney] Grogan, one-time Democratic boss of the old 18th ward [now the 27th], died yesterday in a hospital at Fort Atkinson, Wis., near the farm he retired to live some time ago. Mr. Grogan was 65 years old and was stricken with a paralytic stroke a few days ago and was removed to the hospital. His widow and one daughter, Mrs. Norman C. Barry, were at his bedside when he died.

Grogan was a political boss of the old 18th ward and a rough and tumble school. He was a leader of the men who were in the 18th ward twenty years ago. He rode rough-shod over his political opponents for some years, ruling the ward from his saloon at 1160 West Van Buren street. Most of his political career was occupied by a series of battles with Michael E. Sullivan, former fire attorney and former assistant state's attorney.

Aided Harrison Election.
Grogan rose to power in 1911 when he opposed his brother-in-law, Aid. J. Brennan, who was then boss of the ward, and organized the lodge house vote for Carter H. Harrison. With Mayor Harrison's election, Grogan became leader of the ward and remained so until he had a quarrel with Sullivan. There followed many battles between the Grogan and Sullivan factions until the Democratic organization finally ousted Grogan in favor of John J. Touhy, present sanitary district trustee.

Grogan was continually in the public eye. He was crude, but colorful in his utterances. He gave interviews during his several campaigns for Alderman (none of which was successful) sitting in the rear room of his saloon. This saloon was bombed once and there was a lengthy investigation.

In 1924, shortly after Grogan had been indicted for violation of the prohibition act, his old home at 229 South Duane avenue was destroyed by fire.

Saloon Often Raided.
Grogan's saloon was often raided by police because he failed to secure a license. But Grogan was never deterred and placidly continued his way, usually winning his case in court. In 1927, Grogan boasted publicly that no policeman dared enter his saloon unless he gave permission. This boast was withdrawn when a gunman entered the place, seeking Grogan, with the announced intention of killing him. Grogan was born 55 years ago in Willewater, Wis.

CANADIAN JURY FINDS YOUNG M. P. GUILTY OF RAPE

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

OTTAWA, Ont., March 20.—Luis M. Auger, 27, Ontario Liberal, youngest member of the Canadian house of commons, was convicted of rape tonight by a jury in Carleton county assizes of the Ontario Supreme court. Auger will be formally read out of the house of commons before prayers tomorrow.

Auger, who took his verdict calmly, will be sentenced tomorrow morning. The death penalty which is still on the British statute books for this kind of offense, is obviated in this case by the jury's recommendation for mercy.

His victim, a seventeen year old girl, a constituent, was present in court with her aunt throughout proceedings. She wept at frequent intervals.

The girl related details of an attempted assault committed on her in Auger's room in the parliamentary buildings on the day previous to the actual offense. She went back the next day, she said, for an apology, but Auger locked the door and attacked her.

KILLED BY GAS FROM AUTO.
A victim of carbon monoxide gas, Henry H. Willard, 50 years old, a retired real estate dealer, was found asphyxiated yesterday in his garage at 2708 Harrison street, Evanston, by his nephew.

POLICE SLAYER GUILTY; MUST DIE IN CHAIR

Aaron Woodward, colored, 35 years old, was found guilty and sentenced to the electric chair yesterday by a jury in Judge Robert E. Gentzel's Criminal court for the murder of Policeman Jerry O'Connell of the detective bureau. A motion for a new trial was entered by Woodward's attorney, and a hearing will be held on April 6.

Policeman O'Connell was attempting to apprehend Woodward for the robbery of G. W. Perotzka, a colored minister. A detective bureau squad interrupted the crime on the night of July 29, 1928, and was about to place Woodward under arrest when he grabbed the minister about the body and used him as a shield, while firing at the policemen. In the exchange of shots the minister and O'Connell were wounded, the latter dying later.

Wounded Several Times.
Other members of the bureau squad chased Woodward into an alley, but did not succeed in taking him prisoner until he had been wounded several times. He, however, recovered at the Bridewell hospital.

As soon as the verdict was read, the woman who was widowed by the defendant's gun stepped up to the jury rail and thanked each of the 12 men. She wept as she spoke to the men who had administered justice to the slayer of her husband.

Praises Action of Jury.
"If more juries would do the same thing the life of the policeman would not be held so cheaply by the gunmen," she said.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles Bellows prosecuted the case.

Hughes to Sail May 1 to Sit on World Court Bench

Washington, D. C., March 20.—(AP)—Charles E. Hughes is expected to sail from New York about May 1 to take up his duties as a judge of the world court in Geneva.

Publishing Business Wants a Partner

A monthly publication of fine standing, representing an important branch of the agricultural industry, seven years old and under present ownership two years, desires a partner who can buy for cash an interest up to fifty per cent, the money to go into the business. One-half interest, $7,500.

Partner must be experienced in some branch of the publishing business, preferably the business end. Character, experience, industry, as important as capital. Property now breaking even. Owner unable to properly attend to all departments personally.

GENTLEMEN, Your Approval Is Appreciated

A. STARR BEST deliberately set out to make this the most outstanding institution of its kind in Chicago.

We determined that here a man may shop at his ease and unhurried.

We determined that here noise, hurly-burly, and high pressure shall be notable by their absence.

So, gentlemen, we created for you a men's store that is more than a store.

During the last few days you have inspected our men's furnishings department on the first floor and found ties, socks, shirts, hats, shoes and whatnot that meet every demand of good taste.

You strolled through the club-like surroundings of our second floor men's clothing department—devoted in its entirety to fine suits, overcoats and sports apparel—and found it a pleasant place to linger.

You found your way to our third floor department, and verified our ability to provide original and authentic styles for boys and little chaps.

You, gentlemen, saw to it that our formal opening has been a brilliant success. Now the obligation to "follow through" is squarely up to us.

Naturally we are grateful and gratified that our efforts have met with your approval.

Rebels Move on Naco.
NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, March 20.—(AP)—Gen. Fausa, Tepeto, governor of Sonora, announced plans to proceed against Naco, Sonora, held by Gen. Cas Gonzales, tonight or tomorrow morning.

Mayo and Yagui Indian soldiers of the rebel army, loaded down with bandoliers, began clambering aboard a train this evening. Gen. Tepeto said he would consume most of the night placing his troops in position to storm the entrenchments.

Naco Prepares for Battle.
NACO, Sonora, Mexico, March 20.—(AP)—Gen. Cas Gonzales took charge of the Mexican federal forces here today while American troops in a business like fashion drew up artillery to positions for a clash between Mexican rebels and the federal troops in possession of Naco.

Further indication of an impending military engagement below the Arizona border was seen in the unexpected arrival of Gen. Abelardo Rodriguez, governor of Lower California.

PREPARES NEW DRIVE

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

(Copyright 1920: By The Chicago Tribune.)
TORREON, Coahuila, Mexico, March 20.—This city, lying at the foot of the rugged and towering Sierra Madre mountains, tonight was the scene of feverish preparation for a final relentless drive by 30,000 to 50,000 federal troops to end the Mexican revolution, which it now appears will be the most ill starred and bloodless though most financially costly attempt to overthrow the government ever staged in this turbulent republic.

Gen. J. G. Escobar, commander in chief of the revolutionary forces, erstwhile one of the ranking and most able federal generals, continues to retreat northward. Part of his army was still at Jimenez, Chihuahua, yesterday, but it is believed here he will fall back to Chihuahua City.

Juarez, on the Rio Grande, still further to the north, is his ace in the hole, for once there, if everything fails, the revolutionary leader needs only to step across the American border, claim he is a political exile and they may let him stay. On the other hand, the federal authorities from President Porfirio Gil down already are saying they depend upon Ambassador Morrow to see to it that Escobar is brought back to end at the spot of some adobe wall with his one time warm friend, Gen. Juan A. Almazan, probably delivering the coup de grace.

Cavalry Follows Rebels.
Gen. Almazan's advance column of cavalry and infantry in motor trucks is following the fleeing rebels, but there are no highways worthy of that name and railroad engines are faster than horses or automobiles under such conditions. The rebels are doing a most scientific and thorough job of reducing the railroad tracks behind them to a mass of charred wood and twisted rails.

All Torreon turned out last night to acclaim Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, most revered and respected man in the

GERMAN EXPLORERS UNCOVER GREATEST CHAIN OF RIVERS

BUENOS AIRES, March 20.—(AP)—

One tremendous crescent of river systems through the heart of South America, forming what would be undeniably the greatest river chain in the world, links the estuary of La Plata with the mouth of the mighty Amazon. This is the report brought back to civilization by the two German explorers, Wilhelm Flichta and Wilhelm Kaap, just returned from the wilderness of the upper Paraguay river.

Thousands of miles of water, from the Argentine plains through Paraguay, inland Brazil and the lower tributaries of the Amazon to the Amazon's mouth just under the equator, have thus been shown to be joined in the somber and savage forests of the Brazilian province of Mato Grosso.

Flichta and Kaap declared that the higher affluents of the Paraguay river were linked with the lower tributaries of the Amazon, greatest river in the world.

republic, on his arrival here. The former president and now acting minister of war entered the city late in the afternoon in an automobile. He was accompanied by several members of his staff.

The dust of the desert through which he had been riding in an open car practically all day long lay heavy on his campaign costume, a broad brimmed sombrero, white silk shirt and riding breeches and boots. He went at once to the Hotel Salvador to confer with Gen. Almazan.

COUNCIL FINANCE GROUP TO INSPECT STREET PROJECTS

An investigation of the progress on several major street improvements will be made tomorrow by members of the council finance committee, it was decided yesterday. The committee will inspect Ashland and Western avenues, Robey street and several other streets where improvement projects are under way, to determine the amount of money needed to continue the work.

Experts and lawyers have been paid $30,000 out of the Ashland avenue bond fund since Jan. 1, the committee was told. The aldermen placed on file a request from the Chicago Plan commission for an appropriation of $20,000 from the Robey street fund when it was shown that the commission has received $40,000 from the corporate fund and has employees in the board of local improvements whose salaries total nearly $25,000.

Action was deferred on an appropriation for subway construction and on a proposal to reduce the number of structural engineers from 55 to 29 at a saving of approximately $80,000.

CALVIN COOLIDGE CUTS PRESS ON NEW YORK VISIT

New York, March 20.—(Special.)—Calvin Coolidge, private citizen, making his first trip away from his home in Northampton, Mass., since his retirement from the Presidency, arrived in New York tonight and went to the Hotel Commodore, where a two room suite had been reserved for him.

He was accompanied by Lucius S. Storms, managing director of the American Electric Railway, who told reporters that Mr. Coolidge was in New York "on private business" and did not wish to be interviewed.

During a brief stop at Springfield, Mr. Coolidge told reporters that he was going to New York to see Ogden Reid, publisher of the New York Herald-Tribune. He said, however, that he did not contemplate entering the newspaper field.

MEXICO KEEPS UP PAY ROLLS IN FACE OF REVOLT

Men Who Fought in Earlier Wars Get Doles.

BY JOHN CORNYN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
MEXICO CITY, March 20.—With war expenses mounting higher every day, the government continued to make the regular half monthly payment to employees.

Hundreds of maimed and crippled soldiers presented an animated picture as they waited for their money. They represented every battlefield in Mexico for the last fifty years. All were on the side of the government.

One old man with one arm and one leg gone shouldered a crutch and fought over again the triumphs of Francisco Madero and his wild riders who crushed the power of Porfirio Diaz in the spring of 1911. Another, with nothing but the trunk of humanity left, pantomimed, with stabs of amputated arms, a little home made wagon in which he was drawn by his faithful soldadera wife, the taking of Ocotlan from the De La Huerta rebels in the spring of 1924. Graphically he annihilated the rebels.

Tells of Escobar's Former Fame.
A group of swarthy skinned Indians from Juchitan, near the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, speaking at times in Zapotecan, and at times in Spanish with a decided Indian accent, told how they had followed Gen. Gonzalo Escobar at the battle of Palo Verde in 1924, and recounted the famous charges of the cavalry which resulted in the defeat of the Gen. Enrique Estrada's rebels.

In pantomime they fought over again the cavalry charge from which Gen. Escobar came forth with a bullet through his body. There was a mingling of psychology, peculiar to the Mexican Indian. Almost in the same breath he glorified the leaders of the charge on Palo Verde and in the next heaped execration on the leader who had turned rebel.

Marvel at Modern Warfare.

In another part of the extensive courtyard, outside the paymaster's office, a group of maimed soldiers were discussing the latest scientific developments of war. To them, bombing planes, aerial transportation, and radio communication were agencies which had not entered into their experiences of war, mysterious, sinister, wonder working weapons against which no rebel could long stand up. They peeped the air with strange war engines spreading death before them. Suddenly the simple Indian mind came back to reality.

"Do you remember when a bomb from a fort cannon came sizzling into our midst as we sat about the camp fire that night, before Puebla," said an old man. "Remember, we were in the midst of a war tale. How we scattered like deer. The bursting shells carried the head off of Juan and left Santiago with one arm and Roberto with no legs to stand on. Killing a score or more outright."

All laughed in childish glee as if the memory of the explosion were one of the funniest experiences of a soldier's life.

WOMEN CONTROL IN FILLING JOB OF TAMMANY CHIEF

New York, March 20.—(AP)—Women will have a majority of the votes in the meeting to select a successor to George W. Olvany, Friday, for the leadership of Tammany.

The women district leaders have 11 1/2 votes. Ordinarily the men have an equal number, but now they have only 11, due to the fact that no successor to the late James J. Hagen, leader in the seventh assembly district, has been chosen.

Although heretofore the women have voted with the men leaders in their district, there was nothing more than this precedent to lead the men to believe they will not vote independently in the selection of a new Tammany hall leader.

James F. Egan, secretary of Tammany hall, today sent out a formal call for a caucus tomorrow.

19, STOLEN BABY, COMES HOME TO MOTHER

Kidnaped by Nurse and Reared as Her Child.

Anna Nuzzo, 19 years old, came home to her mother yesterday after a separation of nineteen years. Kidnaped by her nurse when she was 6 months old and taken to a California ranch, where she has lived since then, Anna did not know until a short time ago that the happy family who welcomed her yesterday even existed.

The reunion was held in the home of her brother, Andrew Nuzzo, 717 South California avenue, where late last night the Nuzzo family and their friends celebrated the homecoming with laughter and tears and caresses. In a sleeveless, slip-skirted dress and tan shoes, Anna flitted from room to room of the apartment, making the acquaintance of the grown-up brothers and sisters whom she had not known before.

But Mother Is Best.
After every few minutes she left them and rushed through the throng and into the pantry where her mother, despite tear dimmed eyes, filled up the great round bowls of pale green mince, the platters of cold meat, "brigoles," and the sticky slices of spiral canolles. Then, in close embrace, mother and daughter murmured to each other in broken Italian phrases just what this reunion after 19 years meant to them.

Anna was kidnaped by Mrs. Mary De Franco, a neighbor, who nursed her while Mrs. Nuzzo was at work. Unable financially to continue the search for the kidnaper after the juvenile court officers had done what they could, the Nuzzos gave the baby up for lost. Mrs. De Franco never told Anna that she was not her mother and on a ranch near Sacramento, and later in the little hamlet of Gustine, she grew up as one of the De Franco children.

Flash Secret of Birth.
But when Mrs. De Franco died in 1913 her husband married again and in a quarrel with the girl the new wife revealed that she was a foster mother. Search through the De Franco

GETS CITY JOB

MATILDA FENBERG.

Miss Matilda Fenberg, an attorney who has practiced law in Chicago for seven years, yesterday was appointed as a special assistant corporation counsel. She will be assigned to try cases in the department of City Attorney William D. Egan. Miss Fenberg, a member of the Chicago and Illinois Bar associations, is said to have the distinction of being the first woman to have matriculated in the Yale Law school.

Papers brought to light the name of Mrs. Nancy Onesta, 2237 Harrison street, the midwife who officiated at Anna's birth. Through her, Anna located her mother and brought about the homecoming. Anna will not go to work immediately.

"She must just rest and make herself one of us first," said her brother Andrew, a former employee of the county recorder's office. "She will live with my mother and Mary and Samuel at 1506 Jonquil terrace. All we want is that, after all these years away from us, she will be happy."

PUBLISHER FOUND SHOT TO DEATH WITH GUN IN HAND

Rudolph C. Jacobson, 2, resident of the Edgewater Beach hotel, was found shot to death in his room yesterday, apparently a suicide, according to Summerdale police. He was 53 years old and had been in ill health for some time, the police were told.

Mrs. Jacobson left her husband in his room late yesterday morning when she went to the hotel dining room for breakfast. Upon her return two hours later she found his body lying on the bathroom floor, a revolver clutched in his hand and a single bullet wound in his temple.

Mr. Jacobson was president of the Jacobson Publishing company, 300 West Adams street. The concern publishes several trade journals. He was a member of the Illinois Athletic club. An inquest will be held at 4547 Ravenswood avenue at 10 o'clock today.

MUST DISGORGE SEIZED PAPERS IN SANITARY CRAFT

Carlstrom Expected to So Order Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Springfield, Ill., March 20.—[Special.]—Attorney General Carlstrom is expected to rule tomorrow that "whoopie" party bills and other records seized by State Senator Harry W. Starr, chairman of the senate committee investigating the Chicago Sanitary district, must be returned to the owners, the Central Auto Service company.

The raid was made through the use of a subpoena duces tecum and it is understood that Carlstrom's opinion will be that it conveyed no right upon any member or representative of the committee to go to the offices of the drainage trustees' favorite motor laundry and there take possession of the books and papers just surrendered by State's Attorney Swanson under court order, but merely was a legal command for the representatives to produce their records before the investigators.

Starr's Procedure Illegal. In other words, it is said, the head of the state law department acting in a judicial capacity will rule that Senator Starr's procedure was illegal and will deprive him of the only material for fireworks of which he has gained possession since this inquiry began and possibly, because of the attitude of the majority in opposition to the chairman, may put a damper on further proceedings.

While the senate group was at loggerheads, the newly appointed house committee of seven members was preparing in orderly fashion to tackle the specific field of its investigation, the conduct of legislators who appeared on one or more pay rolls.

Upon the invitation of Chairman Robert J. Branson of Centralia, State's Attorney Swanson of Cook county and Frank J. Loesch met with the com-

WOLFE, FAHERTY "AT OUTS"; ONE FIGHTS BILL; OTHER FOR IT

Springfield, Ill., March 20.—[Special.]—Members of the legislature today were chuckling with amusement over what apparently is a "break" between two members of Mayor Thompson's official family, Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works, and Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements.

Mr. Wolfe is sponsoring a bill in the lower house to permit him to resurface streets which now must be repaved under the board of local improvements.

The commissioner of public works, according to the story going the rounds today, arrived in Springfield last night to lobby for his bill and to his astonishment found ahead of him Gotthard A. Dahlgren, attorney for the board of local improvements, already lobbying against it.

Both were on the job among the legislators today.

Consideration of the bill was postponed until next week when it seems probable that representatives of each department will appear to speak on opposite sides of the bill unless the mayor intercedes and obtains an armistice.

mittee and agreed to give their cooperation.

The house also received during the day a bill similar to the Barbour bill of yesterday, turning the district over to a state appointed board instead of the present elective one. The new bill was introduced by Representative Clinton Searle of Rock Island.

Elmore Active. While these phases of the sanitary district battle were progressing the new administration of the district, headed by President Howard W. Elmore, continued their effort to win approval for their bill to permit the issuance without referendum of sufficient bonds to do the construction work demanded.

A new move on their part was the introduction by Senator James J. Barbour of a bill to require a systematic budget system as proposed by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

KILLS WIFE AND SELF. George Young, 31 year old Negro, yesterday shot his wife, Valerius, 30 years old, to death and then fired a bullet into his own brain, dying instantly.

CIVIL SERVICE BILLS HIT THIRD SNAG OF SESSION

Swanson Insists on Naming Own Aids.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Springfield, Ill., March 20.—[Special.]—For the third time the house civil service committee this afternoon deferred action on the Chicago bills to put employees of the county and the sanitary district under the civil service merit system. At the close of the session the bills appeared to have little chance of passing in their present form.

When the measures were presented a month ago by Representative Ben Elrod, it was with the understanding that they had the active support of the county and sanitary district officials. But today's hearing proved otherwise.

State's Attorney John A. Swanson first took a shot at the county bill by asking that his office be excluded from the civil service system.

Wants to Pick Own Men. "My office, I am frank to say, is one of the most important in the United States today," Mr. Swanson declared. "It is absolutely vital that I must control appointments of trusted persons, for I am held responsible by the people."

"It would be a dangerous experiment to allow employees selected by some one other than the responsible official to hold positions where they could make thousands of dollars by divulging secret information."

Clayton F. Smith, county recorder, said he favored the spirit of the bill if certain exemptions were made, while a representative of Sheriff John Traeger asserted that all deputy sheriffs, bailiffs, and highway police should be appointive. No other officials appeared, although all had been invited.

Employees Are Lukewarm. Representatives of the Cook County Employees' association were for the bill with certain amendments, while a minority group opposed it altogether. The only spokesman advocating the bill as it stands was E. O. Griggenhagen, its sponsor, president of the Chicago civil service commission.

"It looks like every one has some fault to find," commented Representative E. V. Graham. "I'm for tossing the bill out of the window."

Several others agreed that this would be the proper course, but it finally was decided to hold another hearing next Wednesday to hear other county officials. A number of committee members expressed themselves in favor of reviving the county civil service bill, killed at the 1922 session, and it was thought likely that this will receive consideration as a substitute.

The sanitary district merit system measure received about as many jolts as the county bill.

TWENTY DEAD IN CANADIAN RAILWAY CRASH

Flaming Coach Takes Death Toll.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
TORONTO, Ont., March 20.—At least twenty passengers were killed and a dozen injured when two crack Canadian National passenger trains crashed head on, in the early morning hours forty-two miles north of Pary Sound.

It was the worst train wreck in Canada since 1910. Trapped in two flaming coaches, screaming men, women, and children fell victims to flames after an engine had plowed its way into the first colonist coach. Imprisoned in the wreckage, unable to move, they perished before succor came. The death list is not yet complete. Nine bodies have been recovered. There may be half a dozen more dead.

In Remote Place.

The scene of the disaster is so remote that it is difficult to get the details. There is only a passing track at Droocourt, the station where the wreck took place. There is no village and no operator stationed there. It is just a name on the map. Passengers from the Pullmans aided in the rescue work. They pulled people out of the blazing cars. They uncoupled other coaches and, by main force, pushed them back out of reach of the flames.

It was 4 a. m. when the Winnipeg express from Toronto crashed into the east bound flyer. It was 9 a. m. before word got back 42 miles to Pary Sound. Doctors and nurses were started toward the scene. The impact came with terrific suddenness and those in the day coaches were thrown from their seats. Fire starting in the colonist car behind the baggage coach prevented the rescue of the passengers who were trapped there. Only six passengers in the colonist coach are known to have escaped. Both engines left the track and were both headed north with the tenders broken away. Broken steam pipes added to the horror of the scene.

Cause a Mystery.

It is still a mystery how the wreck occurred. It is said that the Toronto train had orders to take the siding at Droocourt and let the other flyer pass. The trains were hitting 50 miles an hour when the horrified engineers saw each other's headlights.

Many dead are so badly mangled that identification will be impossible. Only seven have so far been identified.

Congressman's Son Missing.

Washington, D. C., March 20.—(AP)—Representative John M. Nelson of Madison, Wis., today received a telegram from his son, Harold Nelson, 31, that his younger son and secretary, Robert M. Nelson, 24, was missing in the wreckage of two Canadian National railway trains at Droocourt, Ont. The brothers were en route from Madison to a fishing camp in the province of Alberta for a vacation.

Rumor notes were found in her room, one addressed to Miss Mabel Eitel, Winnetka, one to her attorney, and the third to Dr. Emil Harris, chief of staff.

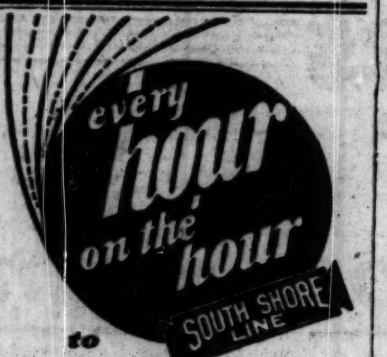

FIRST 2 EXTRA JUDGES GO TO CRIMINAL COURT

Judges Jacob Hopkins and William J. Lindsay of the Superior court were assigned by the executive committee yesterday to the criminal branch, effective April 1. Chief Justice Michael Feinberg of the Circuit court said he will announce the transfer of three Circuit court judges to the criminal bench later this week. These five are to supplement the regularly assigned Criminal court judges in clearing the calendar of 1,800 pending indictments by Aug. 1. With the creation of a new branch of the Municipal court to eliminate indictments in cases properly subject to misdemeanor prosecution, the changes are expected to effect a major reform in criminal procedure.

The judicial advisory council, headed by Chief Justice Frederic R. DeYoung of the Illinois supreme court, went to Springfield yesterday to present six bills intended to bring about further reforms. The council had an appointment for a conference with Gov. Louis B. Thompson.

My feet hurt so...

I was almost frantic

For a time, I felt that life was hardly worth living. Now, thanks to these shoes, my days of foot pains are over.

FOOT authorities have for years recommended Ground Gripper shoes to those who suffer from aching feet.

Ground Gripper shoes are designed along natural, common-sense lines. They relieve foot ills because they allow the foot to function naturally and normally... the way that Nature requires.

Perfect foot freedom... that's the real secret of Ground-Gripper comfort. Wear Ground Gripper shoes regularly and you'll banish forever the torture of aching feet.

Only Ground Gripper shoes combine the following vital principles of the correctly built shoe:

1. The Flexible Arch, which allows the foot muscles to exercise and thus strengthen themselves with every step.
2. The Straight Inner Line, permitting the toes to function with a free, strong, gripping action.
3. The Patented Rotor Heel, which helps you toe straight ahead, the normal, natural way.

Ground Gripper shoes have helped thousands of foot sufferers... and they'll help you, too.

At the nearest Ground Gripper store is a man who will understand your feet and your shoe problems. Consult with him today. That's the surest way to obtain immediate and permanent relief.

NOTE—A Podograph Chart of your feet will show clearly the condition of your arches. Let us make one for you—free.

CAN ONE WHITEN YELLOW TEETH?

Miss Dorothy Dore of Detroit
Answers the Question

"Until I took up smoking my teeth were lovely and white," she says. "Then they acquired a yellowish look that no dentifrice would remove. I did not want to give up smoking because it is such a pleasure. I saw an advertisement which described how to remove 'Yellow Mask' with ORPHOS TOOTH PASTE. I promptly bought a tube. Now my teeth are whiter than they have ever been. . . . Beautifully white. . . . and I smoke without further misgivings."

If you smoke . . . or if your teeth have a yellowish appearance . . . ORPHOS is your tooth paste. Its miracle of whiteness comes from its basic cleaning agent—"Tri-Calcium Phosphate," a white, powdery substance which your dentist uses to clean teeth. Thus dental chair efficiency for daily home use. Fine for gums, too—especially if they are soft, sore and spongy. Get a tube today. At your nearest drug or department store.

FAMILIES FIGHT TO SAVE HOMES ON MISSISSIPPI

Flood Menace Increases in Illinois.

Quincy, Ill., March 20.—(Special.)—Two hundred and twenty families are fighting the waters of the Mississippi river in the Indian Grove drainage district of nineteen thousand acres, and the Lima Lake drainage district of 14,375 acres, just north of this city.

The water was within four inches of the top of the levee at Meyer in the Lima lake district, with the river still rising. It had reached a stage here of twenty feet at 6 o'clock tonight. The situation is the most critical in years, and the weather bureau at Hannibal predicts it will be higher than at any time since 1851.

Back to Save Area.
In the Marks drainage district across the river from here renewed work has begun in an effort to save another twenty thousand acres with fifty families. In the South Quincy drainage district the situation is not so acute.

All levees and dikes are being heavily patrolled night and day with sand bags and everything in readiness. With the river rising at Davenport and all the way down, and a four to six foot rise predicted for Cedar river, it is not improbable to expect the stage of the river will exceed twenty feet and seven-tenths, reached twenty years ago.

Warns Flood Districts.
Atlanta, Ga., March 20.—(AP)—Edward H. Calvin, Red Cross worker, telegraphed today that he had been successful in warning the residents of the Apalachicola river valley in Florida of the coming flood waters.

The Red Cross worker said he was

PLANE FLIGHT KILLING 14 REPEATED 3 TIMES IN TEST; NO MISHAP

New York, March 20.—(Special.)—A trimotored Ford passenger plane similar to but heavier than the Colonial craft which crashed Sunday with a loss of fourteen lives, today repeated successfully three times under identical circumstances and with an identical human load, the fatal flight, indicating that some unknown factor other than the failure of one of the motors must have caused the tragedy.

The flight—a daring attempt to test the validity of the theory of Lou Foote, pilot of the wrecked plane, that the accident was caused by the failure of the left outboard motor—was made this afternoon at the Newark airport with Nat Brown at the controls.

Accompanying Brown in the cockpit was Lieut. Richard Aldworth of the airport, while one of the thirteen passengers—making a total load of fifteen—was Robert Cropey, representing the department of commerce at the inquiry into the disaster.

well ahead of the flood crest. His message was sent from Blountstown, Fla., which is south of River Junction. The business section there was under high water.

Health Measures Adopted.
Measures to safeguard the health of the refugees in camps of northwest Florida and southern Alabama continued receiving major attention from the health authorities.

The Red Cross established a refugee camp on the outskirts of Elba, Ala., in order that the adult citizens might have a base nearer their homes to carry on salvage work. Aviators continued to fly over the flooded territory, carrying provisions and supplies to those in need.

BUILD AIR BEACH ON GRANT PARK SHORE AT ONCE

Landing Place Ready Within 60 Days.

BY ROBERT WOOD.
While plans for a lake front airport cool in the hands of the city council, members of the south park board met yesterday and ordered the immediate construction of an aviation beach on the Grant park lake shore.

Their action insures the establishment within two months of a landing place within walking distance of the lake. Its cost will be $5,000. Its construction will involve emptying the dumping of a few loads of dirt in the lake at the foot of Adams street and the grading of a maneuvering space for amphibian planes.

Ready in 30 to 60 Days.
President Edward J. Kelly stated that the construction would be completed within thirty or sixty days and that with its completion amphibian planes would be able to land in the harbor, taxi up the ramp, and discharge passengers and express on the shore. Both amphibians and seaplanes will be able to anchor in the harbor.

The plans, introduced by Commissioner Michael Igoe and following the recommendations of Supt. George T. Donoghue, call for the construction of two short breakwaters extending from the shore just south of the Yacht club. Dirt will be dumped into the protected area and will be covered with a plank platform extending from the shore to a point some three or four feet below the water's surface. The plankway, which extends about 70 feet from the shore line to the outer drive, will be graded to enable amphibians to turn around on shore under their own power and roll back into the water.

Calls Spot Ideal.
"This is an ideal place for an aviation beach," President Kelly said. "Breakwaters extending in the lake provide calm waters, and insure safe mooring for aircraft. It will enable owners of private water planes to land within a few minutes of their offices and paves the way for the use of aircraft in commuting from suburb to city."

A shed will be erected on the shore to shelter goods brought in by air operators. Amphibian planes will be able to taxi passengers and merchandise from the municipal airport to the lake front, thus eliminating the tedious automobile ride from the loop to the municipal field.

Board Has Riparian Rights.
He pointed out that the riparian rights of the south park board extend 54 feet from the shore line at Adams street, making it possible to construct the beach without objections from the federal government, which regulates the harbor rights. The harbor itself is designated by the government as anchorage area for small craft.

Construction of the aviation beach will open the harbor for the use of commercial air transportation. It is known that a number of private operators are planning to use the harbor as a base for operations. A Minneapolis air firm, it was stated, plans to run seaplanes into Chicago and land on the lake front. Another private operator mentioned in this connection is the Universal Air Lines.

Mme. Schumann-Heink
to Sing in Church Sunday

Mme. Schumann-Heink arrives in Chicago Saturday to give a concert on Sunday at the old St. James church, 29th street and Wabash avenue. The Rev. J. P. O'Donoghue, pastor, said she had consented to make her last public appearance in Chicago at the concert for the benefit of the St. James church, and that arrangements are being made with Mrs. Walter G. McGuire as general chairman, assisted by Mrs. George Skakel, Mrs. Joseph Solari, and Miss Adeline Houle.

R.B. Clothes in Chicago

For Easter and for Spring

Unusual Suits and Topcoats

EASTER comes early to Chicago. R. B. Clothes have just arrived in Chicago—men and young men hereabouts like them . . . Glad we are here for Spring, doubly glad we are here to give a clothes thrill to your Easter Wardrobe. Easter Sunday is March 31st. Every day now counts. Come in today or tomorrow. We don't wish and you don't want hurried service.

MAY we not impress one fact on your mind? We wish you to judge R. B. Clothes with any standard up to $50. And make your comparison a critical one—on quality, on style, on fit, on smart appearance.

WE purchase our wools from back of the looms that weave them. We produce every garment we sell in our own modern workshops—we buy in a big way, sell in a big way. And these are the forces that make possible a low price and a high standard of quality. R. B. Clothes are made by the R. B. Clothing Co., manufacturing retailers selling direct at wholesale price. Division of Raab Bros., Inc., Custom Tailors since 1903. Thirty-two midwest stores in principal cities.

WHEN you purchase R. B. Clothes—Suit or Topcoat—you are buying success. They help you make the grade for they are successful looking . . . And particularly at Easter . . . you know how it is—everybody likes to dress up freshly . . . Look your last season's topcoat in the eye. Can it withstand the noonday glare on the city street? And your old suit will look rusty and sad Easter morn . . . You can depend upon R. B. Clothes for a fresh Easter inspiration. A sound clothes investment. A Spring tonic for Chicago.

TRIBUNE PLANE GALLOPS HERE FROM CLEVELAND

9 Hours 50 Minutes, Air Time from New York.

BY TOM PETTEY.

(Picture on back page.) Galloping in from Cleveland in the face of a whistling headwind, the Tribune New York to Chicago air yacht completed its commuting trip at the municipal airport at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The hop from Cleveland was made under rain-filled clouds in a few minutes less than four hours, making the total flying time from New York to Chicago 9 hours and 50 minutes.

Capt. Boris Sergievsky, the pilot, had little difficulty in locating the landing field here which, unlike the mud-bogged port in Cleveland, has a cinder runway to drop down on. Circling down from 3,000 feet he brought the "Uitin" Bowler and its five occupants to a quick landing and tugged the big amphibian away in its new home.

Girls Want to Keep on Going. Miss Daria Elmer, 13 year old daughter of Robert E. P. Elmer, Sikorsky Aviation corporation official, climbed from the plane into her grandfather's arms.

"I didn't get alick today," she shouted, "and we bumped more than we did yesterday when we flew over the mountains. I wish we were going to keep on flying."

Leo Tarletzky, assistant pilot; John McAndrews, mechanic, and this reporter, who made up the rest of the party, felt the same way about keep-

The Universal Aviation corporation will become the first of the subsidiaries of the recently organized aviation corporation, a $200,000,000 aeronautic holding and developing company, if a proposal to be mailed to the Universal stockholders today is ratified by the majority of them by May 20. It was announced here last night. President Piper offered to exchange the Aviation corporation's stock for the Universal stock on a share for share basis. The Aviation corporation is at present negotiating for substantial interests in many large established companies in the aviation field representing various phases of the industry, including manufacturing of aircraft, aircraft engines and equipment, and transportation of passengers, mail and express. President Piper will state in his letter.

Maj. William P. MacCracken, air chief of the department of commerce, flew to St. Joseph, Mo., Tuesday night to speak before 600 air minded citizens attending a chamber of commerce aviation banquet on the great need for more and larger airports and better airway markings. It was learned today. He arrived at the banquet late, but fortified with a fresh personal experience to give force to his argument. Missing the St. Joseph airport he and his pilot, E. A. Burtel, were forced to land in an alfalfa field.

Tractor Rescues Mud Bound Plane.

The Bowler, wearing its two flying derbies, waddled down the rain soaked Cleveland airport like a fat gray duck, but before it could lift its mud spattered tail its wheels sank in the soupy earth and all the eight hundred horses in the two motors could not budge it an inch. Everybody but the pilot and Miss Elmer waded about in the mud, digging and pushing, but the Bowler wade through mud and ball a passing auto to take them to the city.

State Representative Michael Igoo, minority leader in the house, flew from Springfield in a Universal Air lines plane yesterday afternoon.

Forty-eight students of the Glenbard High school at Glen Ellyn inspected the hanger at the municipal airport yesterday and were taken for a short flight over the city in the National Air Transport passenger planes.

The first radio beacon to be installed at the municipal airport was put into operation last night by the National Air Transport. The beacon broadcasts radio signals to pilots in flight, enabling them to fly directly to the landing field during darkness and periods of poor visibility. N. A. T. pilots flying the mail on the Chicago-Cleveland and the Chicago-Dallas lines will be able to pick up the signals some 800 miles away and fly on a bee line to the airport. Only the planes of the N. A. T. are equipped to receive the signals.

George E. Tuckett, a Detroit busman man, was rushed to Detroit yesterday in a Universal Air lines plane to visit his wife, who is at the point of death in the Ford hospital. Pilot George J. Brew flew the distance in two hours.

stuck fast until the tractor hitched on to its nose and yanked it to slightly more solid ground.

The pilot turned the heavy air yacht into the wind and switched on the gas. The fat gray duck flitted its tail a couple of times, shook itself free from some of the mud and sailed into the air, Chicago bound.

Gallop on Against Headwind.

The Bowler galloped on westward—the word galloped is used advisedly for a thirty-five mile an hour headwind had it pitching most of the way. The trip from Cleveland was made at 3,000 feet, the pilot not wanting to get up among the rain clouds. The navigation was perfect. The ship sped on an airline to Chicago, swung wide around the city and cruised back to the airport.

PLAN AVIATION COUNTRY CLUB IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., March 20.—(Special.)—Plans for a $500,000 aviation country club, to be modeled after a similar unit in Chicago, were announced here today. The board of governors will include Harry F. Guggenheim, William A. Rockefeller, George F. Fruchon Jr., Sherman M. Fairchild, George B. Post and Robert Law Jr.

One hundred acres near metropolitan Los Angeles are to be fitted up with model hangars, clubhouses and flying field. The club will maintain its own planes and instructors, and the announcement says, will be operated on a nonprofit basis with memberships available to women as well as men.

The coast unit, it is declared, will be operated in affiliation with aviation country clubs already established in New York and Chicago, with members of one entitled to privileges in another. Mrs. John J. Mitchell Jr.

British Air Mail Traffic Increases 36 Per Cent

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] LONDON, March 20.—British air mail traffic is growing according to a statement issued by the British postmaster general tonight. Last year there was an increase of 36 per cent in the letters dispatched by air mail in England with a total weight carried of 27,000 pounds. A considerable part of the increase was carried by the Cairo-Bahra air service.

The continental air traffic shows a substantial and steady increase. France and Germany taking the bulk, the latter with a 50 per cent increase over 1927, and France one of 10 per cent. The parcel air services in the last two years have nearly doubled in weight, last year exceeding the 100,000 pound mark for the first time.

ASSESSORS' JOB TO FIX TAX BASE, MALONE ASSERTS

Says He Won't Approve Revenue Increase.

WILLIAM H. MALONE, chairman of the state tax commission, yesterday tossed back to the board of assessors the duty of deciding what percentage of actual values shall be taken as assessed values. This percentage will determine whether Cook county's aggregate tax bill is going up or down as the result of the reassessment nearing completion.

Harry S. Cutmore, director of the revaluation, and the board of assessors have contended that this responsibility is the state commission's. On Tuesday Mr. Malone said he expected to announce the percentage yesterday afternoon. Several days ago at a club luncheon he said it would be between 25 and 40 per cent. But late yesterday he took the position that it was the assessors' duty to fix this percentage.

Opposes Revenue Increase.

"Whatever percentage may be decided on by the board of assessors," said Mr. Malone, "I will not certify the tax roll if it increases the revenue from the total under the 1927 quadrennial reassessment. I'll not be a party to giving more public funds as fuel to the tax spending orgy of our dissipated local government bodies."

"I won't certify the tax rolls unless the average tax bill is reduced. The percentage must be reduced because the appraisers are finding buildings and land that never before paid any tax, and unless the assessed values are lower it will mean more money for our taxpayers."

Members of the board of assessors, since the possibility of an increased tax burden was revealed several days ago, have taken a similar position in regard to the percentage, which they contend must be fixed by the state commissioners.

No State Basis, He Says.

When it was pointed out to Mr. Malone that the assessors contend it is the duty of the commission to fix the Cook county percentage at the same figure that serves as a taxing basis for other counties in the state, he replied that a statewide basis has never been ascertained by evidence that a court would sustain. "Cook county has never before asked the state commission for such a figure," he said.

He was also asked about reductions in valuations made by the board of review. A survey of the county's 1927 revaluation showed that on 6,000 parcels of property the assessed value had by the assessors was 40 per cent of the actual value but that the reviewers, in reductions on individual pieces totaling $525,000,000, lowered the percentage to 35.

In discussing this situation Mr. Malone said he is preparing a commission order which "will bar the board of review from making these wholesale slashes and will require evidence before the reviewers can act on a complaint."

Last night's public meeting was held in Lake View High school for the district bounded by North avenue, Lawrence avenue, Western avenue, and the lake. C. H. Perrine, principal of the school, presided and succeeded in preventing a repetition of the uproar against higher taxes that marked Tuesday night's session in South High school, where Charles Ringer, secretary of the board of assessors, presided. Ringer was not at last night's meeting nor was any member of the board, except John E. Conroy.

With Principal Perrine presiding, Mr. Cutmore and his assistant, Joseph B. Hall, told 1,500 property owners how the unit values were determined by the appraisers. Another meeting will be held tonight in the Beaubien school, 5025 North LaSalle avenue, for the district bounded by the city limits on the west and north, east to Kedzie and south on Kedzie to Lawrence, west on Lawrence to Central avenue, south on Central to Belmont, thence west to the city limits.

THREE POLICEMEN ARE INJURED IN MOTOR MISHAPS

Three motorcycle policemen, two of them members of the Oak Park force, were injured yesterday in accidents. One death was reported in Cook county, raising the 1929 motor toll to 144.

Policeman Harold Lindblad of Oak Park was seriously injured when he crashed into a truck driven by Roy Haggerty at Lake street and Harvey avenue, Oak Park, as he was pursuing a speeding motorist. Haggerty was backing out of an alley.

Policeman Ralph Wilsey, also of Oak Park, was injured and his machine was wrecked when it was struck by an automobile at Lombard avenue and Madison street, Oak Park.

Policeman Frank Polson, 49 years old, was seriously injured when he was thrown from his machine while pursuing a speeder on State street near 57th street. His partner, Henry Huttner, continued the chase and captured the speeder, Arnold Merbit, 31 years old, 7901 Indiana avenue.

Jennie Millak, 13 years old, 1423 Augusta street, died from injuries she received when she was struck by an automobile driven by Paul Misiska, 2932 Melrose street, at Noble and Walton streets.

STUDENT STRIKES IN SPAIN POINT TO WIDE UNREST

Nation Seeks to Escape
Dictator's Yoke.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
BARCELONA (By Courier to Nica, France), March 20.—Behind the curtain of the censorship a desperate drama is taking place in Spain. The inspiring motive is to get Premier Primo de Rivera out of power. On the heels of the artillery revolt of seven weeks ago, headed by former Premier Sanchez Guerra, and of which it is open talk in Spain King Alfonso had previous knowledge, comes the present uprising of students in which blood was shed copiously in the street fights in Madrid.

These student uprisings, which have in general the secret sympathy of all the liberal classes, have spread beyond a mere academic aspect and made another general political problem for Gen. de Rivera because other people besides the students joined in the manifestations.

The street rioting seems to have been confined to Madrid, though thousands of other students in Salamanca, Barcelona, Seville, and other cities went on strike and refused to attend classes. Many of the professors were dismissed, more resigned. Several of the universities were closed. Guards and the police have put down the street manifestations with fire and iron.

Stern Decrees Add Fuel.
The student strike began two weeks ago. The dictator issued three menacing orders for a general return to classes. Finally decrees were issued revoking the matriculations of the rebellious students. This added fuel to the flames and as the manifestations grew in intensity orders were issued to the police to fire on the agitators, which they did.

The exact number of injured was not learned, but it is reported that there were scores, including policemen. One of the injured agitators, a student named Hernandez, was reported dying.

Hundreds of students were detained and arrested. In Madrid on Tuesday, March 12, I watched the mounted police charge the crowds on the Calle Alcala, the principal thoroughfare, beating them with the flat of their sabers. The Madrid crowds are apathetic and bow before the show of police force, and outwardly the city is calm.

Cabinet Confers with King.
An illustration of the anxiety over the latest crisis is the cabinet's constant conferences with the king. Gen. de Rivera is also in constant contact with the commanders and chiefs of the army and with Gen. Sanjurjo, the commander of the civil guard.

Aside from its aspect as a barometer to the general unrest in Spain and the indication that anything may flare up at any time the students' strike and rioting appears to have been caused by three things: The first of these was the dismissal of several professors who had expressed sym-thetic views with the revolt of the artillery officers. The second reason was to protest against Gen. de Rivera's order placing the cadets of the disbanded artillery school at Segovia in civilian and engineering positions which the students of the other universities considered unfair competition for jobs.

The third reason was to protest against Minister of Public Instruction Senor Calles for recently giving the right to two clerical colleges in the north to issue professional degrees which further adds to the competition for jobs.

Injects Religious Aspect.
The last protest injects a distinct religious aspect into the struggle. All classes of students in the Spanish universities are solidly behind the movement.

Everywhere in Spain one hears guarded talk that King Alfonso is sick of Gen. de Rivera and wants to replace him, but cannot find a man who can collect enough political support to withstand the opposition of the dictator. The king himself is said to be sympathetic to the striking students.

Gen. Damasco Berenguer, chief of the king's military household and former Spanish high commissioner in Morocco, is reported to be the king's favorite choice as successor to Gen. de Rivera, but Gen. Berenguer is holding out for fear he has not sufficient backing of the various groups.

Charm King Knew of Revolt.
From the most reliable sources I have been told that King Alfonso had had knowledge of the Sanchez Guerra revolt last January, long before it happened. All this is by way of explanation of the student uprisings which are based on the fundamental discontent of Spain and are not merely scholastic disorders as the government communicates or the friendly news agencies claim.

The deep seated dissatisfaction also extends to the business men who can see no way out of the present economic morass. Spain's tariffs, outside of the United States, are the highest in the world. The ostensibly high tariffs were adopted as a policy for encouraging home industries which the present dictator thinks will make Spain self-sufficing.

The business men in Barcelona, however, claim the government has applied exorbitant rates to products which Spain can never manufacture. The dismay of the business circles centers in the belief that Gen. de Rivera has not enough understanding of the economic problems facing Spain to steer her through her present difficulties of rising prices and a falling off in trade.

Despite all this, Barcelona, which might be called the brain of Spain, concedes that Dictator de Rivera is certain to remain in power two to four years longer.

FALL OFF CHAIR IS FATAL.
Martin Anderson, 50 year old watchman for the American Railway Express, who fell from a chair March 1 while trying to replace a light bulb in his home at 1046 Wilson avenue, died yesterday at St. Luke's hospital.

ALL SOUTH PARK BOARD OFFICERS ARE RE-ELECTED
All the south park board's 1928 officers were re-elected at the annual meeting yesterday. Edward J. Kelly is president; Louis J. Deha, vice president; Michael L. Igoe, auditor; Oscar G. Foreman, treasurer; M. E. Connelly, secretary; George T. Donoghue, general superintendent; William Corrigan, assistant general attorney; and H. L. Kemp, controller. The chairmen of the various committees also remain unchanged. It was announced.

At the open meeting following the election the board voted to reject all bids on the rehabilitation of the old Fine Arts building in Jackson park, which is to be converted into the industrial museum. New bids will be asked on the remodeling of the exterior. Bids on the interior work will be sought when a contemplated rearrangement of architectural plans is effected.

The proposed lake front ordinance, which provides for construction of the long delayed Randolph street viaduct and the Illinois Central suburban station, will be submitted to the commissioners for the fifth time at a special meeting called for Saturday by Mr. Kelly.

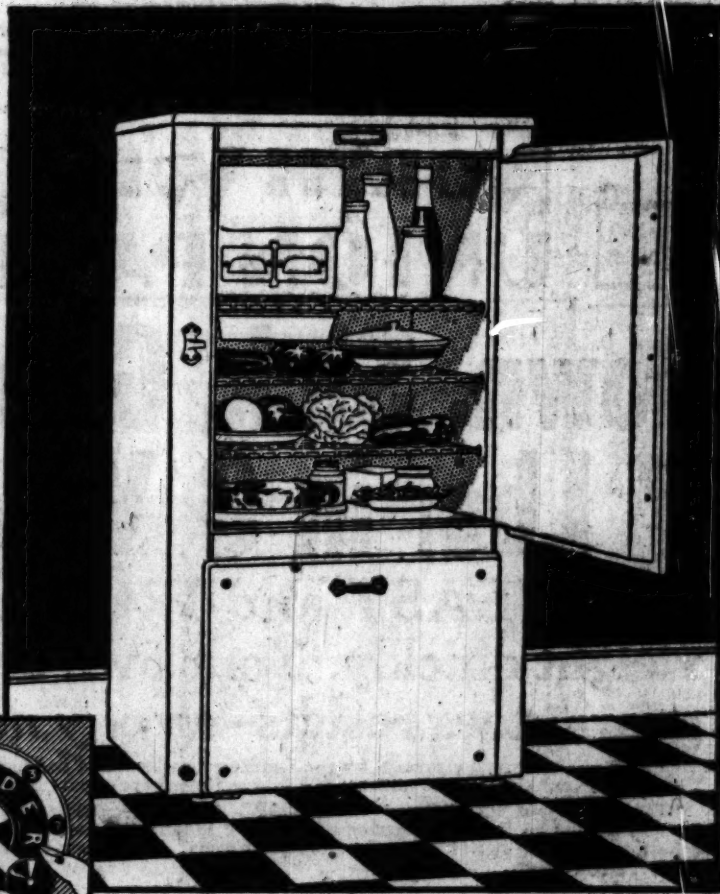

MISSING BYRD TRIO RESCUED; PLANE WRECKED
New York, March 21.—(AP)—Larry Gould, Bert Balaban, and Harold I. Joss, the three members of the Byrd expedition missing since last Thursday in the Rockefeller mountains of Antarctica, have been found, according to a radio dispatch from Little America copyrighted by the New York Times and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Commander Byrd, who flew to their rescue, reported that their plane had been destroyed by severe winds while on the ground.

CHICAGO'S STORES AND THE TARIFF

Battle Ranges knives to Cashmere

BY ARTHUR CR
[Chicago Tribune Press Staff]
Washington, D. C., March 13.—Middle western registered protests were made today against proposed duties on a list of commodities.

President Hoover has ways and means committee in boosting tariff rates to avoid a reaction which would be injurious to the Republic. Hoover and administration congress have in mind aroused in the middle west the Payne Tariff of 1909 and the subsequent split which led to the B. O. in 1912.

The Chicago department store has been against the change from the American valuation system to the British system of customs duties. Consideration of the Foraker tariff law of 1902 and the put forward strong opposition rates on various articles.

CHICAGO'S BIG STORES ACTIVE IN TARIFF FIGHT

Battle Ranges from Pen-knives to Carillons.

By ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., March 20.—(Special.)—Middle western groups have registered protests with the house ways and means committee against proposed duties on a wide variety of commodities.

President Hoover has cautioned the ways and means committee to go slow in boosting tariff rates. He desires to avoid a reaction which will be injurious to the Republican party. Mr. Hoover and administration leaders in congress have in mind the opposition aroused in the middle west by the passage of the Payne-Aldrich law in 1909 and the subsequent Republican split which led to the Bull Moose party in 1912.

The Chicago department stores, which figured in the successful fight against the change from a foreign to the American valuation basis in assessing customs duties during the consideration of the Fordney-McCumber tariff law in 1912 and 1913, have again put forward strong opposition to higher rates on various articles.

Fight Rages on Textiles.
The Boston store has filed a protest against proposed higher duties on women's cotton gloves, an industry which gained a foothold during the war, but has languished as a result of German competition. Marshall Field & Co. and other big Chicago importers have also thrown their influence toward keeping down rates of duty.

Duties on all sorts of textiles are involved, as are those on cutlery and other manufactured articles. Importers of cutlery have asked for lower rates, contending that many of the rates on pocket knives in the 1922 act are practically prohibitive. Clothing manufacturers in Chicago have complained against present rates on raw wool and have objected to the request of wool growers for an increase. The National Retail Dry Goods association, with a considerable membership in the middle west, has protested against the American valuation basis which again have been put forward by manufacturing groups to obtain greater protection. Straw hats are a commodity in which the retail stores are interested, domestic manufacturers seeking higher duties.

Discord Over Carillons.
The University of Chicago has joined with other institutions in opposing duties on carillons. A representative of the university informed

INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS USUALLY OCCUR IN SMALL PLANTS, CLAIM

The problem of industrial accidents in the United States is largely one of the small industrial plant, according to a formal poll taken among 200 industrial leaders of the National Safety council gathered in session at the Stevens hotel yesterday. The consensus was that, while larger concerns have taken precautions to prevent accidents, smaller plants have neglected to do so.

W. Dean Keefer, director of the industrial division of the conference, expressed dissatisfaction at the manner in which the United States census bureau, the United States bureau of labor statistics, and the state department of labor and inspection neglect to obtain the exact cause of every industrial accident reported to them.

"If the cause of industrial accidents were so shown, industrial leaders could quickly equip their plants with safety devices covering the hazards," he pointed out.

During the meeting announcement was made of the eighteenth annual safety congress, to be held in Chicago next September, for which 7,000 delegates from all parts of the world are expected.

The ways and means committee that is considering importation of a foreign made carillon of 64 bells for its new chapel comparable to the carillon installed by Edward Bok at Mountain Lake, Fla., and by a few churches and other institutions elsewhere. The carillon cost $200,000, or more, plus a duty of 45 per cent, this duty being so high as to cause the University of Chicago and others to hesitate about going ahead with their plans.

Domestic bell manufacturers insist that they are able to manufacture carillons equal to those of foreign make, but admit that the largest number of bells on any carillon of domestic manufacture is 23.

Those seeking to import carillons free of duty insist that the domestic manufacturers have never made carillons as distinguished from chimes, the former being defined as including chromatic scales and having at least 35 bells, capable of playing almost any kind of music from a keyboard.

Manufacturers to Hold Discussion of Tariff Issue

The Illinois Manufacturers' association and the American Tariff league will hold a joint conference on the tariff tomorrow following a luncheon at the Congress hotel. Principal speakers will be James B. Reynolds, former assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of customs; Dr. Arthur L. Faubel, secretary of the American Tariff league; and George R. Meyer, former president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, who will act as chairman of the conference.

HOOVER TO KEEP HANDS OFF FARM RELIEF DRAFTS

He Thinks Congress Can Handle Job.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., March 20.—(Special.)—President Hoover will keep hands off the actual framing of farm relief legislation.

The word went out from the White House today that the President intends to maintain the constitutional relationship between the executive and congress. He regards it as beyond his prerogative to draft legislation in all its details for presentation to the law making body.

According to the President's viewpoint congress already knows the principles to govern the new farm relief program. These principles were adequately stated, he thinks, in the Republican platform adopted at Kansas City and in his speeches during the campaign. The President will again present his views on fundamental policies in his message to congress at the opening of the special session which convenes on April 15. He will not attempt to prescribe the language to be used in framing the bill nor all its details.

Hearings Begin Next Week.

The agricultural committees of both houses have arranged for hearings next week and plan to have tentative bills ready for introduction by the time congress convenes. The President assumes that members of these committees will be in a position to prepare measures in conformity with the Republican program.

After bills have been drafted the President is expected to discuss their details with members of congress. If a bill contains provisions which he regards as in conflict with the principles enunciated in the party platform or with his own views he will make this fact known. If a bill conforms to his program he will exert his influence in behalf of its passage. In this way he expects to exert leadership in the development of a farm relief program. By not attempting to impose a detailed measure on congress he apparently believes his leadership will be more effective and the law making branch will perform its functions in the manner that was intended by the constitution.

Tilson Learns Decision.

The President's position on the subject of interference with congressional prerogatives became known after Representative John Q. Tilson (Rep., Conn.), Republican leader of the house, and Representative L. J. Dickinson (Rep., Ia.) had visited the White House separately to ascertain his views on the farm relief program.

Mr. Dickinson, who is regarded as leader of the farm bloc in the house, told the President that members of congress were somewhat at sea regarding the details of the Hoover program. He suggested that the President authorize Secretary of Agriculture Hyde to present the administration interpretation of the Republican platform at next week's hearings. Judging from information made public later in the day, Mr. Dickinson's suggestion failed to meet with the President's approval.

Man, Hanged for Murder of Four, Blames World War

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 20.—(AP)—Paul Ferencsek, formerly prominent in Hungarian social life, who recently confessed having murdered his wife and three children seven years ago, was hanged today. In his confession he attributed his downfall to the "perversion and demoralization of human nature caused by the world war." Ferencsek, who married three Turkish women after murdering his wife and children was originally arrested as an active communist and then confessed to the quadruple murder saying that death was better than a tormented conscience.

When a Child is FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA

For Troubles due to Acid Stomach, Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, Neuralgia, etc.

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give baby a teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, etc.

Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting. Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address: The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 30 years. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The C. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessors, since 1875.

CITY'S ELECTRIC RATES INVOLVED IN LAKE DISPUTE

Diversion Necessary for Edison Plants.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

An increase in the Chicago electric rates is a possibility of the lake level controversy which appears to have been overlooked by the public generally.

Under certain contingencies, the Commonwealth Edison company will be compelled to remove all of its electric generating plants from the banks of the Chicago river and its branches. This would involve the expenditure of many millions in new construction and would have its influence upon electric light and power rates.

Edison Officials in Conference. The sanitary district experts and lawyers conferred yesterday with representatives of the Edison company on the effect of the decision of the United States supreme court, which asserted last January that there is no legal warrant for diverting water from Lake Michigan for sanitary purposes. It held that diversion for navigation alone is legal, and referred to Special Master Charles Evans Hughes the determination of how much water should be diverted so as not to jeopardize the health of Chicago. The hearings of the master will begin on Monday.

The Commonwealth Edison company located its generating plants originally upon the branches of the river because of the large amount of water needed for cooling purposes. If the river is to contain only stagnant water, the Edison plants, it is asserted, will have to be moved.

At the request of the sanitary district, W. S. Monroe, engineer, and Edwin J. Fowler, statistician of the Commonwealth Edison company, have made elaborate studies of the effect of the decision.

Investment Over $90,000,000.

Mr. Monroe is ready to testify that between $90,000,000 and $100,000,000 has been invested in plants placed upon the branches of the Chicago river. In fact, all of the principal plants have been so located, on the theory that they could be operated more cheaply on the river than on the lake and that there has been heretofore for no reason for suspecting that the diversion from Lake Michigan would not be continued.

These plants require for their purposes about 1,100 cubic feet per second, but since a plant can only take water from half of the river, a flow in it of 4,000 cubic feet per second is necessary.

If it is finally decided that there shall be no diversion, or an amount limited to less than 1,000 cubic feet per second, it is assumed that the Commonwealth Edison plants will have to move. The most favorable new locations would be on the lake front, but sites within economical distribution areas are very scarce and high priced.

Estimate 27% Increase.

After canvassing the prospects in all directions, the Edison experts estimate that the cost of new plants would be $125,420,000, transformer installations would add $11,000,000 more, and transmission lines would tack on $24,000,000 additional.

They reckon the total cost of new installation at $171,000,000, on which they figure the fixed charges would be $12,800,000.

Giving a different view, they place the increased expenses and charges for the next 16 years at $326,960,000, requiring an increase in rates of approximately 27 per cent.

Entire City Affected.

If such a condition arises, then every household in the city will find an added interest in the lake level controversy. Several states claim that the diversion of water at Chicago to dilute the city's sewage has caused a lowering of the level of the Great Lakes, which in turn has interfered with lake shipping and consequently has damaged their commercial interests.

In the suit decided by the United States supreme court last January, these protesting states won. Chicago is attempting by the spending of millions, to take care of part of its sewage with activated sludge plants and Imhoff tanks. How many of these shall be built, and how rapidly, is one of the questions before the special master.

THREE RELATIVES OBJECT TO WILL OF MRS. GARLAND

Objections to the will of the late Mrs. Virginia Garland, widow of one of the founders of the "Stop and Shop" store, were filed in the Superior court yesterday by William and Charles Leach, half brothers, and Mrs. Kate W. Gleason, a half sister to Mrs. Garland, all of Dixon, Ill. They allege the widow was not sound of mind at the time she willed her $300,000 estate to charity and education. Under the will Hilldale college of Michigan receives four-sevenths of the estate, the Chicago Home for the Friendless two-sevenths, and St. Luke's hospital, one seventh.

BOY KILLED IN FIGHT. Washington, Ind., March 20.—(Special.)—Struck on the head with a heavy rock during a fight, Linus Wilson, 18, Cannelburg schoolboy, died this morning of a fractured skull. Charges are pending against Charles Bullock, 15, who hurled the rock at the Wilson boy in a fight over a rubber ball.

THOUSANDS LOSE HOMES IN WORST DANUBE FLOOD

BRATISLAVA, Czecho-Slovakia, March 20.—(AP)—Thousands of families along the right bank of the Danube lost their homes, cattle, and other belongings today in the worst flood since 1872. Material damage was estimated at several million dollars.

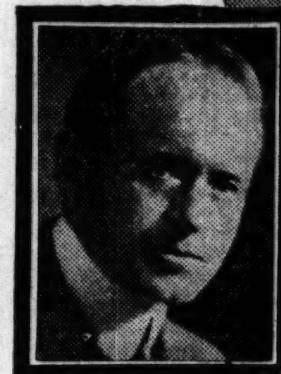

The great river, which is choked with millions of tons of thawing ice, was rising steadily and threatening further disaster. Church bells tolled along its 1,800 mile length warning riparian dwellers to flee for their lives. At many places peasants drove their cattle before them and carrying household effects on their backs, groped their way across hastily built pontoons on the Danube. In the darkness, the cries of women who had lost their children could be heard. Invalids, the aged, and ill had to be carried on the shoulders of soldiers and placed in ambulances.

The entire cities of Karlsruhe and Blakopce were under water, the inhabitants taking refuge in schools, churches and theaters.

FROM THE DESIGNERS OF AMERICA'S SKYLINE TO THE OWNERS OF AMERICA'S HOMES

J. E. R. Carpenter, president of the distinguished architectural firm that bears his name. Among the many famous works of this firm is the new Lincoln Building, now being built in New York.

"I should say that Copper and Brass equipment would be an extremely worthwhile investment for the man who is building a small home."

J. E. R. CARPENTER

J. E. R. Carpenter

FOR small houses as well as for great skyscrapers Copper and Brass materials are the logical choice... and for the same reason, Economy!

The leading architects of America are practically unanimous in endorsing the use of permanent rust-proof materials in home construction. J. E. R. Carpenter, outstanding New York architect, heartily approves their use "both from the standpoint of future maintenance costs and considering the sales value of the house should the owner desire to sell."

If you are going to build, buy or remodel, specify Copper flashings, gutters and downspouts, Brass pipe and solid Brass or Bronze hardware and lighting fixtures. As Mr. Carpenter says:

"When one considers the years of rust-free service that Copper and Brass give, their slightly higher initial cost seems a very small item indeed. In fact, experience shows that in the long run they are the most economical materials."

Write our Building Service Department for additional information. There is no obligation on your part.

Considering their lifelong service and their absolute protection against rust, Copper, Brass and Bronze are not expensive even in the construction of small homes.

3,023 Families help Victor make a new "Record"

-of vital concern to every national advertiser

The Victor Talking Machine Company have always been alert for new ideas.

Recently, they asked 3,023 American families, "When you bought your phonograph, did two or more members of the family influence the purchase?" The answers confirmed their beliefs.

More than 73% of the answers said, "Yes. The whole family contributed ideas and opinions."

Victor also asked, "Which magazine is the favorite with the family as a whole?" 57.7% of the replies said, "The American Magazine is the one preferred by most of the family."

These results were identical with those received by other national advertisers, by a number of advertising agencies, research organizations and several of the country's largest universities.

Each of these investigations yielded the same two fundamental facts:

First, that buying in the home today is influenced by the whole family—whether it be pianos, automobile tires, or even small, personal things like toothpaste or fountain pens. Second, that by using The American Magazine, advertisers can tell and sell the whole family in 2,200,000 homes at one advertising cost.

DEFENSE OFFERS MYSTERY MAN AS LITZINGER ALIBI

Friends Testify For and Against Defendant.

CRIMINAL COURT.
Charles Smith, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Sam Ponce, false pretenses, sentenced to 1 year in the Reformatory, by Judge Harry B. Miller.
Harry Callow, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Judge Robert E. Gentile.
Ray Ortel, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Charles Pech, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Anton Zednick, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Judge Marcus Kavanagh.
Sam Ponce, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Thomas Valdes, manslaughter, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary, by Judge G. Fred Rush.
Alphonse Curtis, burglary, sentenced to Chester asylum for the criminal insane, by Judge Charles A. Williams.

Four men who have long been friends of Virgil Litzinger took the stand yesterday at his trial for murder opened in the court of Judge John P. McGorty. Though all said they had known Litzinger for years they told conflicting stories to the jury.

Two of them gave testimony indicating that he was guilty of the crime. The other two testified in his defense, laying the blame for the killing on a mysterious stranger.

The two state witnesses, who have known Litzinger for years, gave testimony to show the defendant killed Clarence Glynn in a saloon at 2811 West 28th street on Feb. 14, 1935.

Immediately after the state had completed presentation of its evidence the mysterious stranger entered the case for the first time.

Tell First State Witness.
J. V. Bertrand, 5511 West 28th street, a tailor, who had known Litzinger for 15 years, was the first important state witness.

Bertrand, apparently an unwilling witness, told of playing cards in the soft drink parlor with Glynn and four other men. He told of hearing a shot and then hiding behind a settee. A second shot was fired, and the spent bullet hit him in the knee, Bertrand said. Following the shooting, the witness said, he heard Litzinger say, "That's that."

Judge McGorty then examined Bertrand, but the witness refused to admit that he had seen a revolver in any one's hand.
Daniel Scully, 3812 South Hamilton avenue, was the other prosecution witness. He told of hearing shots, seeing Glynn fall to the floor, and then noticing Litzinger with a revolver in his right hand.

Says He Saw Litzinger with Gun.
"I saw Litzinger with a black revolver in his right hand," said the witness, in response to a question from Assistant State's Attorney Clarence Piggott and Duane Reed. "He was standing over Glynn as he lay on the floor."

widow, who was found working in the automobile sales company of Edward R. Litzinger, was a witness as to the corpus delicti. The first defense witness also admitted working for the Litzinger automobile company.

The state closed its testimony by showing to the jury that three of the prosecution witnesses, who had previously accused Virgil Litzinger, have disappeared since preparations were started for the trial, and that Litzinger was a fugitive from justice for three years following the shooting.

Litzinger was under the guard of two balliffs while in court yesterday. This was at the order of Judge McGorty.

Mysterious Stranger Enters.
The mysterious stranger entered the case with the first defense witness, Alfred Boyte, 2809 West 28th street, a nephew of Arthur Gausselein, one of the missing state witnesses. Boyte told of seeing the stranger fire the shot and said Litzinger was an innocent bystander. He is employed, he admitted on cross-examination, at the automobile company of the defendant's uncle.

Henry Provencal, 214 West Pershing road, who rooms at a city residence at that address without paying rent, also depicted Litzinger as an innocent bystander. Boyte and Provencal were put on the stand by Attorney Joseph Roach/Litzinger's counsel.

Under cross examination both witnesses said they had never told any authority about what they had seen. They imparted their information almost immediately after the crime, they said, to Fred Litzinger, brother of the defendant. Fred Litzinger is secretary of the automobile company.

The trial probably will be completed today and the jury is expected to reach a verdict tonight. The state is demanding the death penalty.

Refillable Coffin Cuts
Cape Town's Burying Costs

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
CAPE TOWN, South Africa, March 20.—It was reported at a council meeting of the Great Reformatory today that paupers were buried without coffin to save expense. It also was stated that the municipality kept a coffin with a sliding bottom, the custom being to wrap up bodies in a blanket and take them to the graveyard, the bottom being slipped out and the body dropped into the grave, then the coffin was taken back to the store. The practice will be discontinued.

NAPSTER BLAST BURNS WOMAN.
San Diego, Wis., March 20.—(Special.)—Mrs. Harold J. Fisher, 30, was probably fatally burned in a naptha explosion at her home here today. It is believed that a fire in the kitchen range ignited the naptha vapor.

THREE HELD AS ACCESSORIES IN CICERO KILLING

Seek Two Others as Slain Man's Companions.

Three men were held for grand jury action on charges of accessory to murder by a coroner's jury yesterday at the inquest into the killing of William Vercoe, south side business man, who was shot to death in a Cicero saloon Tuesday night.

Michael Wendel, proprietor of the Pony Inn saloon, 5615 Roosevelt road, where the shooting occurred, was one of those held. The others were George McNally, bartender of the saloon, and William Johnson, Negro porter. Wendel refused to testify at the inquest, conducted by Deputy Coroner Dennis Carroll. McNally testified he did not see the shooting and did not know the identity of the slayer.

Hunt for Two Others.
While the inquest was in progress, detectives, on orders of Deputy Commissioner John F. Stage, were conducting a search for Miles O'Donnell of the O'Donnell bootleg clan, and for Michael Quirk, former Forest Park saloonkeeper.

O'Donnell's name came into the murder inquiry when the license number of an automobile found parked in front of the saloon was traced to his address in Cicero. In addition, Deputy Stage said, a notebook found in an overcoat in the place bore the notation, "O'Donnell $500."

A picture of Quirk, who is said by police to have been tried and acquitted of murder several years ago, was identified by the colored porter, Johnson, as that of one of two men who arrived at the saloon on Tuesday night with Vercoe. Deputy Stage suspects the third man in the party may have been Miles O'Donnell.

Seek Owner of Second Car.
Wendel and McNally were ordered held as accessories both before and after the killing, and Johnson as accessory after the killing. Johnson plates on a second automobile parked outside the saloon bore the name of Frank J. Smithers, 2740 North Spaulding avenue. Stage expressed a desire to question Smithers.

BERWYN OFFICE SEEKERS FILE
PLEA FOR WRIT

Fourteen aspirants to political offices in Berwyn filed petitions in the superior court yesterday for writs mandamus to compel Clerk Louis T. Ziaka to place their names on the ballot for the election on April 2. They charge that he conspired to prevent their filing petitions for town offices. Through their attorney, Urban C. Lavery, the fourteen declare Ziaka is a member of Mayor Thompson's "America First" party. He absented himself from Berwyn last Monday, the deadline date for filing nominating petitions, and left the fourteen men, members of a reform faction, sitting on his doorstep, Attorney Lavery said.

"Troubles we don't talk about"

Dr. J. F. Montague, leading specialist, tells what to do about some of them, however.

Probably nobody is better qualified to judge the merits of various "regulating agents" than Dr. Joseph F. Montague. A brilliant New York specialist in intestinal and rectal ailments, he has had ample opportunity to observe the damaging effects of the old-fashioned drastic measures that people have used to keep their systems in order.

So when he suggests a health measure because it is "absolutely harmless" and because of its "beneficent action" in helping to "re-establish normal habits," his advice is well worth heeding.

In his now famous book, "Troubles We Don't Talk About," Dr. Montague makes special mention of Nujol. Again, in a personal interview he spoke of Nujol as a safe, effective aid to health. He pointed out, too, its particular advantages in the way of ideal heaviness and unexcelled purity.

Dr. Montague prescribes this form of treatment for his patients, as a preventive of painful and serious ailments, and also as a general health measure to be followed regularly.

Nujol is not a medicine. It is a pure, natural substance that helps your system to function as Nature intended it to, under all conditions. Regularly. Easily. Normally. It cannot possibly upset you or disagree with you.

For it contains absolutely no drugs or medicine. Perfected by the Nujol Laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey).

Nujol not only prevents an excess of body poisons from forming, (we all have them), but aids in their removal. It is these poisons that drag you down, sap your energy, dull your whole being.

What is more attractive than health?

Physicians like Dr. Montague know the serious and far-reaching results of neglecting daily habits. When they recommend anything so simple as a regular ration of Nujol, isn't it worth trying? Both as a preventive of acute trouble and to make you feel 100% more fit.

Buy a bottle of Nujol today. Take some tonight. Keep it for the next three months. As Dr. Montague says, the only habit Nujol for is the priceless habit of regularity.

Nujol is for sale at all good drug stores in sealed packages. Made by the makers of Mistol.

CHICAGO BANKS
MOVE TO CHECK STOCK LOANS

Strive to Please Reserve System.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The big Chicago banks yesterday announced a drastic move to reduce their speculative purposes. Several of the banks informed their broker that they had sold their stock loans to the Federal Reserve bank. The banks were reduced by 25 to 50 per cent and it was understood that other banks will make similar action. Thereafter, it is said, the banks will seek to reduce their stock loans to a minimum. The primary object of the movement is to permit the banks to cut down their borrowing from the Chicago Federal Reserve bank. The reserve authorities for some weeks have urged the banks to reduce their borrowings, but with indifferent success. Within a few days, however, the reserve bank has practically issued a ultimatum that redemptions must be made in some of their loans to brokers and customers.

Fears Diminish.
The move of this development there is somewhat less acute fear in La Salle street yesterday that the Chicago reserve bank will increase its redemptive rate tomorrow, although just what the directors will do either tomorrow or next week is problematical. The Chicago banks make reasonable progress in reducing their redemptions, the reserve authorities may hold off; otherwise, a higher redemptive rate is regarded as inevitable.

The Chicago banks have been faced with a peculiar problem during the present era of high money rates. The legal maximum they may charge to individuals is 7 per cent, according to Illinois law, while the call loan rate in New York has averaged between 8 and 9 per cent for some weeks. The result has been that both stock brokers and individuals have sought to carry their collateral loans at the Chicago banks, rather than in New York.

Still another reason for the tightness of credit in Chicago is the fact that the banks have had to finance the Chicago municipal government, the schools, and other taxing bodies by purchasing tax anticipation warrants. It was said yesterday that these loans now aggregate $120,000,000 and are expected to approach $200,000,000 before the end of this year. This has resulted in a heavy drain on bank funds, and otherwise might have gone into commercial and collateral loans.

Steel Industry Booming.
Little from the credit situation, news of trade and industry continued cheerfully yesterday. The midweek steel trade news reported mill operations at peak levels and firmer prices.

Steel ingot production at Chicago is virtually at capacity and output in the greater Pittsburgh area averages 10 per cent, with open hearth furnaces were fully engaged than ever before in the history of the industry, the Iron Age says. "March undoubtedly will break all previous monthly production records and a continuance of the current high rate through April seems assured."

DEMAND SHOWDOWN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
New York, March 20.—The protective committee of the American stockholders of the British General Electric Co., Ltd., has called to Sir Hugo Hirst, chairman of the board, requesting a definite statement on the proposed issue of 1,000,000 shares of stock, and asking full rights and protection for foreign stockholders.

"First, you imply you do not wish to see a committee of American stockholders, but desire the committee to name some one in London who could be in touch with them," concluded the American committee's long cablegram.

The message was signed by Thomas L. Chadbourne, H. W. Croft, H. B. Baruch, Latham R. Reed, D. W. Dilworth, and Herbert Bayard Swope.

OF RADIO (OLD)
EXPIRES TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
New York, March 20.—The old common stock of Radio Corporation of America, maker of more than one millionaire—and the converse is true to an almost equal degree—added a new note today to its already volatile career.

For the first time since the issue appeared on the New York stock exchange in September, 1924, at 26 1/2, not a share was traded in, and the day closed with the stock listed at 42 1/2 bid, 480 asked—no sales. Tomorrow this issue will be stricken from the list, to be replaced by the new Radio common. Its high for all time, 64 1/2, was reached last Saturday, and at this figure it was 200 points above the year's low.

Van Swearingen Firm Buys
Missouri Pacific Stock

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
New York, March 20.—Recent buying of Missouri Pacific railroad stock was ascribed today to the Allegheny corporation, the investment company recently formed by O. P. and M. J. Van Swearingen, Cleveland railroad men. This stock has moved this year from a low of 62 1/2 to a high of 87 1/2, and today it closed easier at 80 1/2.

The Allegheny corporation is also said to have bought New York Central, Santa Fe and some other stocks of large railroads. The Missouri Pacific stock was apparently bought as a speculative investment, since, unlike New York Central and Santa Fe, it does not pay a dividend on common.

Cites Problem of Electrical Water Heater

BY SCRUTATOR.

The struggle by utility companies to obtain a greater per capita consumption of electricity has led to their building up within their organizations large forces devoted to selling merchandise which will promote this result. It has led, likewise, to greater demands being made on engineers for practical equipment for these merchandisers to sell.

One of the devices given serious consideration at the conference of the commercial section of the National Electric Light association meeting at the Edgewater Beach hotel is the electric water heater. Rather surprisingly, it was disclosed that such heating is less in vogue in the great lakes territory than in other parts of the country or even in some European countries.

Extensively Used.
His theory was that the utility companies could afford to make lower rates for business in the off peak time. He estimated that a 60 to 90 gallon tank heated to 145 degrees or more would furnish the average household with enough hot water for a day. In Switzerland, France and Germany such heating is extensively used. To accommodate it, the rate structure has to be complicated. A lower one is fixed for the off hours.

Another engineer, H. W. McCormick, spoke for the low wattage heater that distributed its load over the entire day, and which could be operated economically at or below 1 1/2 cents a kilowatt hour.

Interest in Devices.
A third speaker advocated a high wattage heater that would heat quickly and could be regulated manually. This would not serve the purpose of smoothing out the production peak so well as the other systems, but he maintained that 200 utility companies were now selling current for such heaters and found their customers satisfied at a rate of 2 cents a kilowatt hour.

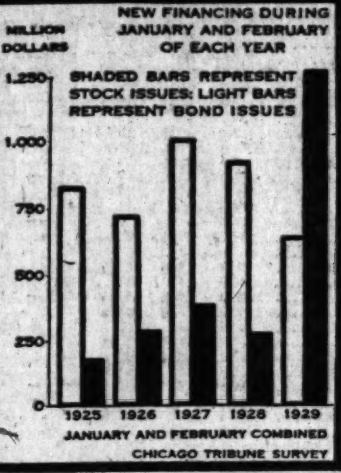

This interest of utility merchandisers in a new device is another example to show that almost any monopoly is far from perfect. We are nearly consider the electric company as without competition. Here it is actually seeking a way to make competition for the gas company and the direct coal heater and the oil burner. It is difficult to forecast what method will heat our water in future. It will be the one that best combines convenience and economy and the electric industry is making its bid.

South Park System Will

Stocks of four corporations and bonds and debentures of two others were listed by the governing committee of the Chicago stock exchange yesterday.

The stocks listed are: Ohmer Fare Register company, 100,000 shares of no par class "A" stock; Western Continental Utilities, Inc., 148 shares of class "A" no par common; Abbott Laboratories, 125,000 shares of no par common, to be admitted to trading later, and the common and convertible preference no par stocks of the Consolidated Service company.

An issue of $1,000,000 first mortgage collateral trust 6 per cent bonds of the North American Funding corporation for the New York Central and St. Louis bridge company were also listed. The membership of Harry H. Field was transferred to Harold C. Gifford and that of the estate of Robert C. Wheeler to Peter C. de Coningh.

HERTZ SELLS OUT
FROM ST. LOUIS
MOTOR COACH CO.

The interest of John Hertz and associates in the St. Louis Motor Coach company has been sold to the International Utilities corporation for around $1,750,000. This is in line with Mr. Hertz's gradual retirement from all business activity.

Mr. Hertz owned control of the company and the Omnibus corporation of America has a one-third of the class "A" and one-sixth of the "B" stock. The St. Louis Motor Coach company owns all of the common stock of the People's Motorbus company of St. Louis.

South Park System Will Sell $3,500,000 Bond Issue

The Chicago South Park district, which has not been in the market with bonds for more than a year, will market on March 26 a new issue of $3,500,000 Columbia Fine Arts building 4 per cent bonds. The issue, which is dated June 1, 1925, will mature $175,000 annually from June 1, 1929, to 1948.

DIVIDENDS ARE INCREASED BY CORPORATIONSTwo Concerns Omit Payments.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
New York, March 20.—Increased dividends were announced today in a number of corporations, with the United Verde Extension company leading off with a declaration of a quarterly dividend of $1 a share, thereby placing the stock on a 4 yearly basis.

In the preceding quarter a dividend of 75 cents was declared, and prior to that the stock had been on a $2 preferred basis. Including the United Verde Extension, a dozen separate copper companies have increased dividends in the last few months, some of them more than once.

Newton Steel company has declared an initial quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the new common stock, recently split two for one, placing the stock on a $3 annual basis, compared with $1 quarterly paid on the old stock. The company also declared the regular quarterly of $1.50 on its preferred stock.

Drops Quarterly Payment.
Two dividends were omitted. The Marion Steam Shovel company dropped the 15 cents quarterly payment due at this time but declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock. The Buckeye Union Oil company passed dividends for the quarter on both common and preferred stock due to the large cost of drilling deep wells at Santa Fe Springs, Cal., and the slackening of production in the company's wells in that field.

Clark Lighter, Inc., omitted the 65 cent quarterly dividend on class A cumulative convertible stock due at this time. The Textile Banking corporation declared a 20 per cent quarterly dividend amounting to 50 cents on the new $25 par stock.

Equal to Old Rate.
The New York Trust company declared an initial quarterly dividend of $1.25 on the new $25 par stock. This is equal to the old rate of $5 quarterly paid on the old $100 par stock, which was recently split up 4 for 1. This dividend, together with a dividend of $5 a share on any old stock not turned in as yet, will be paid on March 30 to stock of record March 23.

Market Value of Stocks
Rises $811,492,324 in Feb.

New York, March 20.—An increase of $811,492,324 in the total market value of all shares listed on the New York stock exchange took place during February, the exchange revealed in a compilation today. The March list of 1,203 separate issues, aggregating $42,521,977 shares, had a total market value of $71,871,889,736, against $71,060,397,412 for the 1,197 issues, aggregating $67,858,244 shares, which were on the list at the beginning of February. The average market value of all listed shares declined $2.56 a share, or from $37.96 a share on Feb. 1 to $35.40 a share on March 1.

Plan to Curb Excess in Oil Production

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
New York, March 20.—Probably the most important step yet made toward stabilizing in the world oil industry will result from the proposed program of the regional committees of the American Petroleum Institute to reduce domestic crude oil production as of April 1 to the country's total on that date last year. This would mean a reduction of the American oil output amounting to 219,000 barrels daily, or about 8 per cent.

Following such important developments as the clearing up of the gasoline price wars in England and on the Pacific coast, and including as it does a brake on production of crude oil in Venezuela, this new measure of sanity in producing crude oil should be of vast benefit to the whole oil industry. Fundamentally a measure of conservation to prevent wasteful production of crude oil, the proposal shows the industry working more vigorously and in greater harmony than any time previously.

Already there are signs of tangible results in bringing about a reduction in production of crude oil. The country's yield in the last two weeks has dropped more than 72,000 barrels a day from the peak of 2,703,000 barrels daily on March 1. Oklahoma has taken the lead in this matter, largely through a six-day producing week in Seminole area, and reduced daily yield of that state 63,000 barrels in a fortnight. California also has made a start with a drop of about 10,000 barrels daily in two weeks with further cuts under way. Texas still has to show real signs of cutting its yield.

RUBBER FUTURES
SENT TUMBLING
AS LONDON SELLS

New York, March 20.—(AP)—Crude rubber futures were sent tumbling about 1 1/2 cents a pound on the New York rubber exchange today. A sag in the London market started the heavy selling movement, which was augmented by touching off of stop loss orders and the calling of margin accounts. Every position with the exception of February, 1930, sold below 24 cents a pound, and March, April, and May went below 23 cents.

American Surety Places
New Common on $6 Basis

The new common stock of the American Surety company has been placed on a $6 annual basis with the declaration of a quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share. This is equal to $12 a share on the old stock, which paid $10 a year.

BY FRED HARVEY.

New York, March 20.—Prophets of disaster were abroad in Wall street today and operations on the stock exchange were disturbed no little. Price finals were pretty much of a stand-off—a few sharp gains, a handful of sizable losses and numerous changes of no importance on both sides of the list.

Credit conditions and probabilities were the chief concern. The call rate went back to 10 per cent early in the day, after repewing at 9 per cent, without any justification in the way of extraordinary bank withdrawals, and the trading element could see nothing in the situation but evidence of continued pressure from federal reserve sources to slow up speculation.

Add to Confusion.

Then there were a flock of discouraging rumors having to do with supposed plans to advance discount rates at Chicago, Boston and here at the forthcoming meetings of the respective reserve boards and these served to add to the confusion. Nor did it help to restore equanimity to any appreciable extent when it developed later in the day that the Boston board, which the rumor mongers insisted had been delegated to lead the way in the rate advance movement, would not meet until next week and that the meeting of the Chicago board, slated to "second the motion," would not take place until Friday—both after the meeting tomorrow of the New York board about which big operators profess to set little anxiety.

Under No Delusions.

Indeed, the street seemed to take it for granted that the New York rate would stand another week, regardless of any revision that might occur elsewhere.

Assurances that the remarks of Gov.

How would you leave your investments—
if you were going away for a year?

AN ample degree of safety and assurance of income from your investments—these you would want above all else. Without them, "Bon voyage" would be in idle hope indeed! Bonds, then, would naturally compose the bulk of your holdings. Bonds are the essence of sound investment properly selected, they are dependable. You can go away and leave them with confidence. Could you follow any better investment policy at home?

It takes time to watch the "ups" and "downs" of a speculative market. It takes unusual skill and great concentration to sell consistently on the "ups" and buy on the "downs." Few men engaged in a business or profession have either the time or the necessary experience. The effort to do so generally takes its toll either in money or in peace of mind.

At home or abroad, the wise course for the average investor is to have a backlog of sound bonds on which to place reliance. Over a long period Halsey, Stuart & Co. has concentrated its effort on this form of investment. In its experience, it has had contact with thousands of investors, each with his own problem and point of view. This house has been able to render valuable counsel in the selection of bonds indicated by the circumstances.

Those wishing the satisfaction that a sound, trouble-free investment structure affords, will find it in the service offered by this organization, whose viewpoint is briefly expressed in our booklet, Essentials of a Sound Investment Policy. Hr. L. E. Kilmarz, President, has submitted the following as of March 20, 1929:

BUSINESS: Electric Shareholdings Corporation has been organized under the laws of Delaware with broad charter powers, including the power to acquire, hold, sell and underwrite securities and obligations of all kinds. Its initial investments will consist chiefly of securities of public utility companies in the United States.

EQUITY: Upon completion of this financing, the net assets of the Company will amount to more than $195 per share of this Preferred Stock.

The 1,850,000 shares of Common Stock to be outstanding have been purchased by the organizers of the Company, Central States Electric Corporation and Hydro-Electric Securities Corporation, for $25,000,000 cash. The Company has acquired from the organizers for $37,000,000 common stocks of the following: Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern Power Corp., Commonwealth Edison Co., Commonwealth Power Corp., Consolidated Gas Co. of New York, Consolidated Gas Electric Light & Power Co., Consolidated Gas & Electric Co. of St. Louis, Consolidated Gas & Electric Co., Northern States Power Co. (of Del.), Pacific Gas & Electric Co., Southeastern Power & Light Co., United Gas Improvement Co., valued at ($23,000,000); also common stock of The North American Co., valued at about $14,000,000. The aggregate of average closing prices for the above stocks for the week ended March 16, 1928 was in excess of the $37,000,000 value at which such stocks have been acquired.

MANAGEMENT: The Board of Directors will initially consist of the following, of whom those marked with an asterisk (*) will constitute the Executive Committee:

FRANK L. DAME
Director, Central States Electric Corporation

MURRAY W. DODGE
Vice-President, Director, Chase Securities Corp.

JOHN FOSTER DULLES

WARRANTS AND CONVERSION: The Preferred Stock is convertible at any time up to and including the redemption date, at the rate of two and one-half shares of Common Stock for one share of Preferred Stock.

In connection with the purchase of Common Stock and this financing, the organizers and the bankers will receive options to purchase 1,500,000 shares of Common Stock at $20 per share after March 1, 1931 and before March 1, 1939. These options and the Preferred Stock warrants may simultaneously become exercisable on or before March 1, 1931 at the Company's election, in which case any dividends will accrue but Common Stock certificates will not be delivered until March 1, 1931.

Warrants accompanying Preferred Stock will be non-detachable except upon exercise. In case the Preferred Stock is converted (except upon redemption) before the warrants become exercisable, then the warrants lapse. In case of redemption of Preferred Stock at any time the warrants may be exercised within thirty days after the redemption date upon presentation of the stock certificates for redemption; and in case the Preferred Stock is called for redemption before the warrants otherwise become exercisable, the warrants may be exercised during the thirty days prior to the redemption date as well as during the thirty days thereafter. The number of shares deliverable upon exercise of the warrant, option, and conversion privileges and in payment of regular stock dividends is subject to adjustment pursuant to provisions of the charter and other instruments regarding stock dividends, recapitalization, etc.

PREFERRED STOCK PROVISIONS: By Charter and/or other instruments it will be provided in substance that the Corporation, without the assent of the holders of the Preferred Stock then outstanding, shall not (1) after the first 250,000 shares of Preferred Stock, issue any additional Preferred Stock unless after such issue, net assets shall equal $150 per share of Preferred Stock then outstanding; (2) amend the charter in a manner adverse to affect the preferences and provisions of the outstanding Preferred Stock; (3) make any distribution of cash or assets upon, or purchase, any Common Stock unless thereafter net assets shall equal $150 per share of Preferred Stock then outstanding; (4) issue any of its own funded debt unless immediately thereafter net assets of the Corporation before deducting funded debt shall be equal to at least 200% of the total funded debt of the Corporation at the time outstanding, including such new funded debt, except for extensions, renewals and refundings of funded debt at the time outstanding or retired within twelve months prior thereto.

Other series of this Cumulative Preferred Stock may be issued with variations as to dividend rates, redemption prices, etc. The holders of Preferred Stock and the holders of Common Stock have no rights as such to subscribe for any additional stock or convertible securities. The Preferred Stock will have no voting privilege, except in the event of default of payment of four quarterly dividends, in which case it will vote for the election of directors share for share with the Common Stock.

The Corporation is required to forward to registered holders of the $6 Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock (Optional Stock Dividend Series) at least five days prior to each dividend record date a notice of such dividend. If within ten days after the record date the Corporation receives from any record holder a notice stating his election to receive payment of such dividend in cash, such holder will receive cash, but otherwise will receive Common Stock. The Corporation will permit holders of Preferred Stock of this series to file orders covering not more than the succeeding four dividend payment dates.

The Preferred and Common Stocks are listed on the Boston Stock Exchange.

Price 100 and Accrued Cash Dividend

We offer this Preferred Stock, if, as and when issued and received by us, subject to approval of our counsel, Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell. It is expected that delivery of Temporary Certificates will be made on or about April 1, 1922.

ing price slid down 25c further in the opening yesterday, but reacted when demand expanded on all sides as a result of the additional cut. Fully 100 lb of the loss was regained and the market finished active at the high point of the day. Some large local packers were among the best buyers in the city, leaving only 4,000 in pens at the close.

Extreme top dropped to $11.75, with general average 15c lower at $11.45, compared with top of $12.10 and an average of $11.90 on Saturday.

Top big packers obtained 2,800 average in droves from $11.38 to $11.40, while small packers and butchers bought 7,600, mostly from $11.35 to $11.45.

Top Price List

Testling steers held firm again yesterday, while medium and weight heaves continued slow at recent slight reductions.

Top prices list at $14.50, with 640 lb average up to $14.40 and 1,325 lb cattle at $14.25.

Good 1,500 lb steers sold at $12.85, with 1,500 lb steers at $12.75. Bulk of the steers at $12.25 to $12.75. Butcher stock showed some activity, but sold mostly steady. Calves declined 50c further. Packers and feeders are selling close.

WHEAT SURPLUS IS ABSORBED AND PRICES ADVANCE

Liquidation Is Felt by All Grains.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation was on in the grain markets early yesterday with stop loss orders uncovered on the way down, but the surplus in the wheat pit was absorbed by houses with reversed its action toward the last, advancing 1/4 cent from the low. The close on wheat showed net gains of 1/4 cent. March finished at $1.29, May at $1.27, and July at $1.26.

Corn, while closing about the best figures, was off 1/4 cent of a cent for the day, March being 2 1/2 cents, and May, 1/2 cent. Oats were unchanged to 1/4 cent of a cent lower with March at 4 1/2 cents, and July at 4 1/2 cents, and rye was off 1/4 cent of a cent with March leading. The latter closed at $1.08, and May, $1.09, and July, $1.09.

A somewhat overbought condition was disclosed in wheat early, and there was a noticeable lack of support at times, with fluctuations decidedly erratic until near the close, when the aggressive buying developed. Many of the pit elements were caught short and covered on the way up.

Crop News More Favorable.

Crop reports from the southwest were generally more favorable, and while Kansas finds about 20 per cent of the Kansas acreage in a condition to be damaged should high winds come, Donavan painted a rather favorable picture of the greater part of the state. The government weekly summary failed to disclose any winter killing of consequence with the exception of Pennsylvania, and subnormal moisture is ample over the greater part of the belt. Some snow fell in the Canadian northwest, but it was not general.

Foreigners have been showing little interest in North American wheat for some weeks past, and no sales of consequence were reported at the seaboard, although Liverpool claimed Argentine clearance for the week would be smaller. That market closed 1/4 cent of a penny lower, with Buenos Aires off 1/4 cent as compared with Monday.

Long Sell Corn Futures.

Scattered long sold corn freely and prices at the seaboard showed a drop of 1 1/2 cents under the finish of the previous day with May off 8 cents from the recent high. Buying against bids was a factor in checking the break, and there was also support on reports of a marked improvement in the shipping demand, sales of 300,000 bu here being the largest in some weeks, and the basis in the spot market was 1/2 cent higher. Buenos Aires was 1/2 cent lower at the close.

PACKERS BUY LARD

A break in grains and hogs brought out liberal liquidation by long in lard yesterday, which was taken advantage of by packers to buy, and they absorbed the offerings. A point was made that shipments of lard the last four days have exceeded receipts, which, it was said, should indicate that sales were being reduced. It was also asserted by a local packer that prices for hogs during March and April have relatively nothing to do with the price of cured product in that period and that those who buy on the receipts and prices of hogs during that period are often deceived. At the close trading was at net losses of 7 1/2¢. Lard in Liverpool was unchanged to 1/4¢ lower. Exports were 3,201,555 lbs and bacon 27,500 lbs.

Bellies were 10¢ to 12¢ lower, with long liquidating. Heavy green hams were a shade lower.
